THE ROOSEVELT

Peary's Ship Entered New York Harbor Today

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—With the flag of Peary at her masthead the little steamer Roosevelt which bore Commander Peary in his quest for the North pole entered New York harbor today. It was barely daylight when the Indians despatched the vessel off Sandy Hook coming slowly. Few of the vessels in the lower bay recognized the Arctic steamer as she rounded the Hook opposite the point of the Hook the Roosevelt gave three triumphant screams. Her signal ran up the day.

The Lakeview liquor cases were before the court this morning, and Judge Hadley, after hearing the arguments of Lawyer Thorne, who appeared for the Armodia Boat and Canoe club, and Secretary McMillin who acted in the capacity of attorney for the government, decided that James Thompson, steward of the club, who pleaded guilty to the charge of illegal keeping, should be assessed the sum of $50, and for the charge of a regular nuisance his license was continued until Saturday, Oct. 10. The case against Lincoln Reddy, also charged with maintaining a liquor saloon at the same place, was continued until the same date, Tuesday, Oct. 10.

The complaint against Andrew A. Gray and William D. Rygan was dismissed.

Thomas E. Cummings, for drunkenness, was sent away for three months.

Michael Duffy was before the court for his fifth time and he will be at the state farm for a few months.

Edwin T. O'Malley was in for his sixth time and he will have to pay $5 before he gets his freedom.

Thomas F. McGovern stole some lead pipe from one of the tenements of Andrew Wheelock in Lancaster street and for that reason he will spend three months in jail.

Sent to Sherborn

Allina Perreault was charged with larceny from Wilfrid Chateaux, whom she invited to visit her room. The amount alleged was said to be $23.50. She was sent to Sherborn.

MILITARY PARADE

25,000 Soldiers Took Part in Demonstration in N. Y. Today

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The story has been told that which the navy has lavishly paid to honor the memories of Henry Hudson and Robert Fulton. The route selected by the celebration committee for the land parades of the week today resounded in the tramp of soldiers' feet and the blaze of martial music. The second of three parades that march from the upper end of the Central park to Washington square along Central park west and Fifth avenue was entirely a military display, and it brought together a variety of organizations and numbered little less than 25,000 men, and it was estimated for early this morning. The 25,000 of the day, however, had a rival. Although the celebration committee had announced that Wilbur Wright and Glenn Curtiss would probably make their return flights today, there was no way for the crowds to know until a few minutes before and when to look for the aeroplanes during the day. Weather conditions were very encouraging. The wind was light and the sun shone brightly. For the second thousand preferred to take the military parade on the chance of seeing something more novel in motion.

The dirigible balloons which yesterday failed in their attempts to reach Albany were housed today in their shed on upper Riverside drive. Their navigators said that they would not be ready to make another flight until next week. Both insist, however, that they have not abandoned the hope of winning the $10,000 prize offered by the

Marshal of the Military Parade.

DETROIT STRONG

The Pitchers Are in Fine Shape

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—After the way in which the Detroit champions outplayed Boston in the two games yesterday, the two plain winners in today's third game of the series—Detroit, perhaps dejected by its own poor showing, while Boston is not. This game will not decide the championship unless Philadelphia loses to Chicago and the visitors win here. If such is the case, the contest will go to Detroit. If the last Philadelphia can do the job, the next Boston team is to end the season in a losing winning all five of its remaining games and have Detroit do the same. Should Detroit win today and again tomorrow, the title will remain in the western city.

H. E. FLETCHER
Nominated by Republicans for Councillor

The state party's candidate seems to have been well received in Boston yesterday. At a luncheon held at the Hotel New Haven, Fletcher, the editor of "Wit and Wisdom," a political newspaper, was presented by the chairman of the Boston campaign committee, John D. Gilmore, and Fletcher accepted the nomination.

At the conclusion of the luncheon, Mr. Fletcher addressed the audience, and the meeting adjourned.

NOTED AVIATORS AT NEW YORK; WRIGHT CIRCLING LIBERTY STATUE

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Nothing attracted more interest at the Hudson-Fulton celebration than the performances of Wilbur Wright and Glenn H. Curtiss with their aeroplanes. It was stated across the strip of water to the statue of liberty and circling the city, but both Wright and Curtiss planned as being sensational stunts that, while this could be enough to satisfy the people, Wright accomplished, it was more or less done to accomplish this.

History of Court

Court Merrimack, No. 1, F. of A., had its nativity in Dracut, Mass., was on Sept. 24, 1870, that the following gentlemen assembled and perfected an organization: Daniel O'Connell, John

On Oct. 4, 1870, the court was instituted.

There was no settled meeting place strange even to its first members, but in 1884 Mr. Patrick Corcoran, who was thoroughly acquainted with the workings of the order because of a long association with the Foresters in England, affiliated him with Court

Merrimack and injected life and enthusiasm that are directly accountable for the court's long and prosperous career. With him came James initiation, Mr. Corcoran was elected chief ranger, and during his term of office, from April to October, 1880, the membership increased to over one hundred members.

SORRY TO SEE IMMIGRATION TO THIS COUNTRY

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 30.—"We need all of our people, you need all of yours," said Baron Shibushawa, leader of the visiting Japanese commercial delegation in discussing Japanese immigration to this country here yesterday. He went on to say that the leaders of industry in Japan were sorry to see Japanese immigration to this country as it deprived them of the labor they sorely needed to develop Korea, Formosa and the new eastern territory over which Japan is gradually extending its influence.

10 MEN RESCUED

Skiff Capsized in the High Sea

ATE, Sept. 30.—Two middle-aged men, Roberts and Algers, had grasped the overturned boat and were drifting out to sea. All haste was made by the lifesavers, who were on the watch, to get out their boat for the rescue.

It was too rough to launch the big lifeboat on the ocean side, so it was put overboard inside the beach into North river and a big power boat rapidly towed it down through the mouth of the river. After a hard battle with the waves the lifesavers soon had the two badly exhausted men safely in their boat and they put about for the land.

It was hazardous work to make the landing through the breakers, but the lifesavers did it without accident, landing the exhausted and thoroughly chilled men on Humarock beach, where every attention was given them.

The men had given up hope when the lifesavers reached them and could have clung to the boat but a short time longer. It was too rough for the power boat to re-enter the harbor and it was obliged to anchor off Humarock beach.

BRILLIANT BANQUET

Representatives of a Score of Countries Were Present

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The vice-president of the United States and the governor of New York; the personal representatives of the emperors of Germany and Japan; the diplomatic corps; His Imperial Highness Prince Kuniaki; Count Le Poer, of the French party; Vice-President Sherman; Gov. Higgins; Senator Root; and Justice Sawyer of the United States sat at the last night in the great banquet hall of the Hotel Astor as the official guests of the Hudson-Fulton celebration commission. There were in addition the officers of eight navies and the admirals of four; representative of the United States Senate in the person of Elihu Root; members of the New York state legislature and officers of the municipality of New York. It was one of the most brilliant banquets that the country has ever seen.

The gold tape of rank, the decorations of distinguished service and the robes of Archbishop Farley of the Roman Catholic church, who pronounced the invocation, made the room sparkle with color. There was considerable delay in seating the guests, and it was noticeable that in the confusion Prince Kuniaki, a cousin of the mikado, and his representative here, found nobody to pilot him to his seat.

The speeches of Admirals Von Koester and Seymour had been awaited with much interest in view of the recent appearance in this country of Lord Northcliffe on the possibility of war between Germany and England, but after complimenting the American navy, both espoused only peace.

Despite the counter-attractions offered by the aeroplane and balloon flights and by the international regatta in progress throughout the afternoon at the anchorage of the assembled fleet, there were large crowds at the more formal events of the morning and afternoon. In the morning more than half a million children attended commemorative and historical exercises in the various schools of the city and in the afternoon 400,000 persons saw Tuesday's historical parade repeated in The Bronx.

The day was observed as "Educational Day" not only in the public schools, but in all the colleges and institutions of higher learning, as well as by learned and patriotic societies throughout the city.

Several tablets and monuments were dedicated at points of historical interest, among them the site of old Fort Amsterdam and Fort Tryon.

Other examples of a commemorative character were held during the day.

DOCTOR THOMSON

Becomes Husband of
Mrs. Wanamaker

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Mary L. W. Wanamaker, widow of Thomas R. Wanamaker, who was a son of John Wanamaker, was married again yesterday to Dr. Archibald G. Thomson, son of the late Dr. William Thomson and a nephew of the late Frank Thomson of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bridegroom's mother, 1425 Walnut street, by the Rev. D. M. Steele, rector of the Church of St. Luke and Epiphany.

Mrs. Wanamaker was Miss Mary Louise Welsh, granddaughter of John Welsh, one-time United States minister to England. Mrs. Wanamaker's mother was a Miss Johnson.

Dr. Thomson, the bridegroom, was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania with the class of '99 and is a member of the Philadelphia, Philadelphia County, Ringers and Radnor Hunt clubs.

The wedding of Mrs. Wanamaker and Dr. Thomson was quiet, almost secret, and this, it is believed, was due upon because of the robustness of Mrs. Thomson, the bridegroom's mother.

RACE LOOKS EVEN

Will Dan O'Leary Beat
the Runner?

The sports are looking over the records seriously and are doing all kinds of sums in arithmetic with the time records of Marathon runners and pedestals in an effort to dope out the identity of the winner in the great race at Washington park Saturday afternoon, in which Dan O'Leary, the world's champion long distance pedestrian, will endeavor to walk six miles while F. H. Heiss's unknown runner will run 10 miles. The time records by which one may figure are as follows: 10 miles running amateur, 50 minutes 10 miles seconds, Alfred Schruba, Glasgow, May 5, 1904; 10 miles running, professional, 51 minutes 5 1/2 seconds. H. Watkins, Rockdale, Eng., Sept. 16, 1903; 15 miles running, professional, 1 hours, 34 minutes 15 seconds. Alfred Schruba, Boston, Dec. 28, 1907; six miles walking amateur, 42 minutes 15 seconds. W. J. Sturges, Stamford Bridge, Eng., Oct. 19, 1895; six miles walking, professional, 43 minutes 1 second. J. W. Ruby, Little Bridgeton, Aug. 29, 1883; and 43 minutes 41 seconds. J. Meagher, New York, Nov. 29, 1882. Thus it will be seen if records for anything, all other conditions being even, the pedestrian has beaten the runner. But Dan O'Leary, the pedestrian in this case, is 66 years of age, while the runner, without any question, is a generation younger. At the Marathon run recently held on the grounds of O'Leary stepped five miles in 10 minutes 10 seconds, an average of eight minutes two seconds to the mile. Adding the average time for another mile, the veteran should make the six in 48 minutes 12 seconds, which is still under the running records. But there is no easier path at Washington park and hence it is extremely doubtful if O'Leary can make the six under 50 minutes.

Owing to the uncertainty of the results, the race will be one of the most interesting ever held in Lowell. O'Leary agrees to walk straight heel and toe, that is, the heel must touch the ground at every step, while the runner can sprint as fast as he wants to. Neither man is to receive any pace or other outside assistance, and the winner takes the purse of $200 and 75 per cent of the gate receipts.

The entries for the five mile run, free for all, and the three mile go-as-you-please for boys will close at the Richardson hotel this evening at 9 o'clock. All entrants will meet Mr. O'Leary at the Richardson hotel to draw numbers and receive their tickets of admission.

DRIVER LYTHE'S ACCIDENT.

Those who attended the Lowell automobile races will regret to hear of the injury by accident to H. H. Lythe and the death of his mechanic, Joe Bates. Both were known to automobile men in this city and were very popular here during the races. The accident shows that the race course at Riverhead, L. I., was defective, for Lythe has the reputation of being a safe driver. The course was new, and new courses do not stand up under high power machines in a speed contest.

The Lowell course is one of the best in the country, not only as to its easy curves but its solidity under the tear of the big machines. The life of the driver of racing auto is hazarded in every race and so with the mechanician who takes equal or greater chances for a less consideration.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DEMOCRACY.

What the democrats of Massachusetts want is a man who will unite all elements in support of the ticket. Thus far no such union has been attained, and it is imperative that the party shall rise sufficiently above the effects of past conflicts to put up a winning battle against the republican majority.

In this campaign the party must uphold the income tax idea and condemn the tariff law as a violation of party pledges by the republican party. When a tariff law that is framed solely for the corporate interests and without consideration for the individual consumer is put in effect, it seems the democrats have an unusual opportunity to expose the hollowness of republican pledges.

There is plenty of good material for a rousing democratic campaign. The question is, will the party leaders prove equal to the emergency or will they haggle at one another's threats while the republicans score a sweeping victory?

RECKLESS JOY RIDERS SENTENCED.

What is a joy ride? The phrase "joy ride" is a species of slang for an automobile ride taken for pleasure with some degree of recklessness such as fast driving. The precise meaning of the phrase is not yet definitely settled.

A species of joy riding that is becoming common is that in which some person or persons take off an auto that does not belong to them and use it often with a recklessness that not only puts the machine to the bad but endangers the lives of the occupants.

A few young men were in court in Worcester the other day charged with stealing an automobile and with driving it in a reckless manner so that the chauffeur was killed in collision with a milk wagon. The quintet had imbibed to such an extent that none of them was able to control the machine with safety. The man at the wheel was killed. One was sentenced to the house of correction for six months for reckless driving and driving while intoxicated. Another was sentenced to three months for taking an automobile not his own. Sentencees like these will tend to stop this dangerous sport of taking an automobile for a drunken frolic. Under the circumstances the penalties imposed were quite lenient.

ABSURD TALK ABOUT CURTAILMENT IN COTTON MILLS.

The Arkwright club is evidently looking for trouble when it begins to talk of curtailment in cotton mills. At a time when the textile industries seem to be enjoying an unusual degree of prosperity, when no less than $20,000,000 is to be expended in the construction of new mill buildings in New England, it sounds strange, indeed, to hear the Arkwright club talk of a general curtailment in the cotton mills.

Is it not rather strange that the mills of New England should not act individually according to their respective necessities rather than in combination as proposed by the Arkwright club? Can it be that all or any considerable number of them are working at a loss so that it should be necessary for them to shut down? It happens to be a matter of common knowledge that most of them are enjoying a rare degree of prosperity and in view of that fact we believe it would be well to inquire whether the dominant action of the Arkwright club does not suggest a combination in restraint of trade rather than an agency to decide when cotton mills will conjointly subserve their own interests by shutting down. It was alleged when this curtailment was first spoken of by the Arkwright club, that it was a movement to help prevent the price of cotton going to twelve cents a pound and at the same time to boost the price of cotton cloth.

But there was no mention of the fact that any prolonged shut down would demoralize buying conditions and injure the market for manufactured goods. A shut down would affect the purchasing power of the masses and thus seriously affect the market for textiles. The people would go in debt and it would take some time to recover from the setback. Indeed one of the things which to-day affects the purchasing power of the people is, that they went in debt during the long entanglements of the panic and they have not yet fully recovered.

To precipitate another period of curtailment at this juncture would be a ruinous policy for the mills as well as for the operatives. It is difficult to reconcile this curtailment proposition of the Arkwright club with the great rush to build new mills in almost every city of New England. Would any manufacturing company working at a loss or confronted with unfavorable prospects embark in the enterprise of building new mills? Certainly not.

While the object of the Arkwright club in proposing a curtailment is not clear, the motive is believed to be deceptive, and it is just possible that in the preposition he put into effect, it may be found to violate certain provisions of the anti-trust law. So far as the Lowell mills are concerned there is no prospect of a curtailment, and prominent mill officials here assert that there will be no curtailment in Lowell and probably none anywhere else under present conditions. Why then this ominous talk of the Arkwright club by which all the cotton mills are said to be controlled?

SEEN AND HEARD

An organ-grinder and a ring-tail monkey attracted more than their share of attention at Lowell's public square yesterday afternoon. They were in Pleasant street and an actress for them and many a copper did the monkey pick from the mud to be concealed in the pocket of his indescribable jacket. However, there wasn't any audience in Lowell to appreciate the organ-grinder and his monkey, except such a collection as in Market street opposite the Waverley hotel. They struck there at the psychological moment, so to speak. A party of out-of-town gentlemen who had dined at the hotel entered the street just as the music started and the monkey was right there with the berries, as Dave Kimball would say. The strangers gave liberally and enjoyed the antics of the monkey. The little fellow danced, doffed his hat when a coin master's hat was passed, and performed other tricks that were comical to say the least. While thus performing, Judge Hadley came along and he too couldn't resist the temptation to give the monkey a coin, and the monkey, probably realizing that for future reference, it might be well to have the good will of the judge, gave Judge Hadley an extra concert, removing his little hat twice in quick succession, once the monkey wrapped his ringtail about a boy's ankle and the "kiddo" looked as if he thought it was all off with him, but a twitch on the chain by the man at the organ unknotted the tail and the boy whose eyes were filled with tears was liberated.

"Although he overcharged me terribly," says the returned traveler, "the cab driver who took me over Paris was most polite."

"All Frenchmen are," we observe.

"Yes, but this one got out of his box and helped me find the necessary pretty family in my French-English dictionary, so that I might say what I thought of him."

A baseball player had two fingers of his right hand pretty badly bunged up in practice and on his way home from the grounds he dropped into a doctor's office to have them attended to.

"Doctor," he asked anxiously as he was leaving, "when this paw of mine heals will I be able to play the piano?"

"Certainly you will," the doctor assured him.

"Well, then, you're a wonder. Do I never could before."

NOWADAYS

In the golden maze of the dear old days.

There was time enough to spare,
The world was new and love was true,
Men brave and maidens fair.

A rose grown red was the happy lot of the bridegroom and his bride.

And a garden gay with a primrose way

And a moss green well beside.

But we're past all that, and a different story.

Is the home of the modern pain,
No driftwood's light on the beach at night.

But a gas stove's glittering glare,

No more he waits at the garden gate.

While she comes through the gloomy pale

She comes with the page, in the elevator cage.

To list to the old, old tale.

He brings no flowers fresh from fragrant showers.

That he's gathered in the dell,

But violet coy by a messenger boy.

He sends his love to tell,

He proposes by wire in words of fire.

Twelve little words alone,

And she whispers "Yes" -as you may guess.

Over the telephone.

A story that put a collector of income revenue "in had" was told yesterday.

It seems that a few days ago the young man reported to his superintendent that he was sick and unable to work. That was all right, and when the young man showed up at the office again he went to The Voyons with his superintendent. Pictures of the Hudson-Fulton celebration in New York were thrown on the canvas, and he and his wife in the very front ranks of the crowd that first appeared stood the young man who reported "sick." The superintendent had the laugh of his life.

A family had just sat down to table

To Remove the Body of His Wife to Another Cemetery

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Feeling that his wife was placed in the receiving tomb in the end is near, and wishing to carry out his late wife's dying request that she or about April 1, 1908, he alleges, his son, Arthur W. Hibbs, and his stepdaughter, without his consent, caused the body to be buried in the Oak Hill cemetery in a lot owned by Mrs. Quigley.

The full further states: "And your petitioner says he has no right or authority to take care of his wife's grave or to be buried there because all of which he feels he may do is to do. Your petitioner is the owner of a burial lot in West Newbury, Mass., in the Rural cemetery. He now wishes to remove the remains of his said wife to his lot in West Newbury, where, as his deceased, he may be buried next to her side, which was her earnest desire just prior to her death."

Mr. Hibbs said Tuesday that he attempted to have the body removed, and that the superintendent of the cemetery would not allow him to without a permit from Mrs. Quigley. He and his stepdaughter have not been on good terms for some time. Mrs. Quigley from removing the body from its present resting place pending a hearing on Hibbs' petition.

Hibbs states in the petition that his wife, Emily R. Hibbs, died in Lynn on April 1 of pneumonia, and that he procured a casket and had the body

WASHINGTHON, Sept. 30.—The immigration question will be one of the important problems with which the next congress will have to deal. Commissioner-General of Immigration Keefe is preparing the draft of a bill to be submitted to the senate and house in December, the object of which is to radically amend and revise the existing immigration and naturalization laws.

If enacted into law it would restrict immigration to aliens intending to become naturalized citizens, and would bar from America those foreigners who simply come here long enough to make and save money which they carry back to their homes.

Millions of dollars annually, according to Secretary Meyer, who became familiar with the situation while postmaster-general, are taken out of the United States and sent to Italy and other European countries by foreigners. According to Commissioner Keefe, the financial problem has now become so acute as to engage the earnest consideration of lawmakers in connection with the subject of immigration.

With a view to obtaining information on immigration matters, Commissioner Keefe has called a conference of immigration commissioners to be held at New York, beginning Oct. 7. Uniformity in the administration of the present laws is sought, and special attention will be given to the question of Chinese and Japanese exclusion.

Immigration commissioners from New York, Boston, Montreal, Philadelphia, Seattle, New Orleans and San Francisco will be in attendance. It is expected that the congressional immigration commission will be ready to submit its report to congress at the coming session. It will contain a great mass of official data, and it is rumored that some startling disclosures will be made, demanding action by congress.

Next week is "quarter week" at the Lowell Five Cent Savings bank.

THE INTERURBAN

Wants to Connect With the Elevated

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—In the hearing on the proposed Boston, Lowell and Lawrence electric road before the railroad commissioners yesterday, Engineer Boyd of the proposed line was on the stand all the afternoon. Among other things he said that a connection should be made with the Elevated at some point and cited Sullivan square as the one most convenient to both companies.

Bentley W. Warren called his attention to the fact that the railroad commission has already decided that Sullivan square cannot accommodate more traffic and he replied that since the decision was rendered and that with the operation of eight-car trains in the tunnel the Sullivan square terminal will be able to accommodate twice as many passengers as before.

The hearing went over until today.

CZAREVNA WON

Captured the $7000 Purse For Foals of 1906

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 30.—The sale of Uhan, 2½, to C. K. G. Billings caused the management to call off the free-for-all trot yesterday, leaving the Horse Review futurity the racing card of the afternoon. The 2-year-old division furnished a new champion today, Native Belle, 2½, and the senior division another 2½, 3-year-old, Czarevna, 2¾. Neither Native Belle nor Czarevna was headed.

Czarevna's win was unexpected, the talent going down heavily on Soprano, 2½, which won the American Horse-Breeder stakes at Readville. Last week the chestnut daughter of Peter the Great went a very bad race and acted wild in scoring. Yesterday she was the sweet racing machine that won the 2-year-old stakes.

Always a winner, she never allowed the good Bellini trotter that had her at Readville to get to her side. Her first heat was the hardest. Soprano getting close enough to just beat under a hard drive. The win at that time was blowing a gale, so the 2½, was really the best mile of the race.

Czarevna is owned by D. Connelly Moran of New York and driven by Tom Nolan. Her record previous to this victory was 2½, made at Lexington last fall.

The two-year-old mare was very easy for Native Belle, the star of the Murphy's great stable. Eva Belini, herself a remarkable youngster, forced her out in 2½, the first heat. This splendid performance in the heavy wind served only to warm her up for in the second mile she flew down to the three-quarters in 12½, then romped home in 2½, the fastest mile a two-year-old filly has ever trotted.

LIQUID GAS

Why Not Buy a Few Shares? Others Have.

WHAT IS IT?

A non-poisonous, safe and cheap gas made from crude oil, liquified and filled into a steel cylinder or bottle, making it possible for the country to have city conveniences at city prices.

HOUSEHOLD USE—

It will light, heat and cook, using practically the same fixtures as ordinary city gas. The light is steady, white and soft to the eyes. The gas is extremely hot gives off no odor while burning, and does not "soot."

MECHANICAL—

Because LIQUID GAS contains three times the heat units of coal gas and is portable, its uses in the mechanical field are little short of marvelous. With the Wolf blow pipe a concentrated point of flame of 7400 degrees F. is obtained, the hottest flame known to science. Cast iron is welded more easily than the blacksmith new welds ordinary iron. Tool steel can be added to common steel. Brass butt welded to steel or iron. Steel or iron bars can be cut in any desired direction with the Wolf cutter. At our exhibitions every day we demonstrate these mechanical and domestic features. In this city for the Lamson Co., S. S. Co. and others we have welded several valuable castings, to their entire satisfaction. Not only saving the castings but much valuable time.

DEMONSTRATIONS—

After witnessing a demonstration you will be convinced that LIQUID GAS is the most wonderful and practical invention you have ever seen. Its use will be almost unlimited. If you are satisfied of this, you will admit that the company owning the exclusive state rights to LIQUID GAS, its tools and appliances, has a brilliant future; that it will make for its first stockholders large sums of money because it is incorporated under Massachusetts laws. The stock is all common, full paid and non-assessable.

THE CAPITALIZATION IS LOW—

The first factory is here in Essex county at Danvers. The officers and directors are Essex county men. The profits should be from 200 to 600 per cent; the market waiting anxious to be served.

PROOF—

Come in and be shown; you must believe what you see, and you will know that this stock at $10 per share is like finding money in a company that guarantees you a square deal, honestly and capably managed with every prospect of expanding to immense proportions until each $10 invested now will represent 200 to 500 or 1000 per cent. Come in and get government report and other literature. also see demonstration.

CATTLE BURNED HAD NO FUNDS

Buildings on Pickering But Girl Had Transportation to Joliet Farm Destroyed

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—From Rome to Boston traveled Francesca Marzi, prospective bride of Augustino Ferminio of Joliet, Ill. The pretty dark-skinned girl made the 400-mile passage on the Canopee. She was questioned by the immigration authorities and detained. Francesca had transportation to Joliet, but she was minus sufficient funds to enable her to reach her destination without getting very hungry. As the government does not sanction aliens landing in the country without adequate funds the girl, despite protests and tears, was held till her fiance could be communicated with. In response to a telegram Ferminio wired $25. Francesca left Tuesday for the west.

The buildings comprised a large house with L and shed and a large barn, making one of the best collections of farm buildings in this section. The origin of the fire is a mystery, but is supposed to have been the work of tramps. The total loss on buildings and contents is upward of $10,000, partially covered by insurance.

At 2:15 yesterday afternoon the fire broke out afresh, and as it threatened other property, including valuable wood lots, the selection of Newington asked assistance from this city and steamer J and a crew of men were sent to extinguish the blaze.

HAS SMALLPOX

Patient Roamed Streets of Boston

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—While a quiet search was being made yesterday morning by the health and police department officials for Peter Ravazikos, who had escaped from the smallpox hospital on Southampton street while a nurse was preparing his breakfast, the patient was wandering about the streets of Roxbury and the South End.

Ravazikos, who has not been in America very long, left the hospital for a reason that only he can tell. He walked from Roxbury and was close to his lodging place on Oak street when he met Sergt. Arthur B. McConnell on division 4.

He complained to the sergeant of being ill and the officer led him from Harrison avenue to the Boston dispensary at Bennett and Ash streets. A superficial examination there revealed what his trouble was, and the board of health was immediately notified.

Instead of being sent back to Roxbury, the man was committed to the post house on Gallops Island. Dr. Durbin of the board of health said yesterday afternoon that Ravazikos was not seriously ill. The health board upon having his case reported to them Tuesday evening traced his recent movements, vacinating everybody who had been known to have lived in his company. Yesterday following his disappearance and recapture more persons were vaccinated, including Sergt. McConnell. In all about 60 persons were vaccinated.

COMMITTED SUICIDE

Soldier Shot Himself Through the Head

his being reduced and relieved of the responsibility.

Caron had been delegated to assist Wright and Curtiss in their preparations for the flight and this seemed greatly to excite him. During the late afternoon yesterday when Wright was preparing to fly he frequently turned to a soldier near him and remarked:

"Why don't that fellow go up. I can't stand it any longer."

After Wright had made his last flight last evening and the crowd of visitors had left the Island Caron went to his bunk and as he was turning in said to his room-mate, "Harris old boy, good bye." Then Caron reached out to one side and grabbed his rifle and before Harris could prevent him placed it to his head and fired. He died almost instantly. He served four years in the Philippines and during his service had received several medals for bravery.

With a rifle before his room-mate, Private Harris, could prevent him, Caron in preparations for their aeroplane flights at Governors Island, quartermaster Sergeant James Caron committed suicide in his bunk outside the redoubt at Fort Jay last night.

NIGHT EDITION POLICE BOARD CASE Judge Dana Will Not Give a Decision This Week

Judging from appearances, Judge Dana's decision in the police board case will not be made this week. Lawyer Edward J. Tierney, who argued before Judge Dana, in review of evidence proceedings, received a postal from the clerk of the superior court, yesterday, instructing him to have the exhibits submitted in the case at the preliminary hearing in court on Saturday morning.

The exhibits are now in the possession of the mayor and the latter this morning said that he knew the court had ordered the exhibits in court on Saturday morning and that he, the mayor, would send them to the court in care of Capt. MacDonald of the city solicitor's office. He said the captain would be accompanied by Lawyer Tierney.

The exhibits, so-called, consist of that part of the evidence not read into the reports of the preliminary hearing.

RUST IN WATER

Complaints About Supply Received From Different Points

Varnum avenue is in for another incarceration, this time from Dunbar avenue to Starbird street. At a meeting of the water board last Tuesday evening the question of the water supply at the Lowell General hospital was discussed. Complaints had been received by the board to the effect that the water at the hospital was rusty at times and the board decided that the trouble could be remedied by the laying of an 8-inch pipe in Varnum avenue. Asked today how much pipe would be required there, Supt. Thomas said: "We will require about 2000 feet. The 8-inch pipe that was laid in 1876 is inadequate and is responsible, I think, for the rust in the water. We will start at once and lay an 8-inch pipe from Dunbar avenue to Starbird street and we feel that the 8-inch pipe will remedy the complaint. It will also improve the fire service in that locality."

Asked if there had been complaints from other localities relative to rust in the water, he said there had been complaints until the department quit using the Cook well water a few days ago. He said that at this season of the year the consumption of water is not as great as during the summer months and the department can get along without the Cook wells.

Mr. Thomas explained that the cloudy and rusty appearance of the water from the Cook wells was due to the fact that the water from those wells is pumped into the mains and as the amount of consumption varies the fluctuation disturbs the water. Few complaints have been received since the Cook wells were discontinued.

The committee on resolutions was in session during the forenoon. It was understood that there were no contested planks in the platform although the rough draft which had been written was expected to be revised before being submitted to the convention.

Contrary to the expectation of many of the leaders, especially those who were desirous for harmony and amity, Mayor Coughlin of Fall River refused to consider the issuing of certificates of indebtedness to pay the expenses of the United States government which the ordinary revenues are not large enough to meet. The party in power has also shown to the people by the enactment of the new tariff law how it interprets the solemn promises given in the platform of the last national convention to revise the customs tariff and the most important question before the people of our state today is whether to record themselves as favoring or as opposing this tariff law.

The doors of Faneuil hall were opened about 10:45, a quarter of an hour before the time set for the calling to order of the convention.

Few of the delegates entered the hall until a band in the balcony struck up a lively air when they began to file in slowly. None of the prominent party leaders was among the early arrivals.

Among the early arrivals was Deacon John C. Ashley of Lakeville, a little town between Taunton and New Bedford. Mr. Ashley when 21 years old cast his first vote in 1856 for James Buchanan for president and he boasted today that he had never voted for any but the democratic ticket since. Shortly after 10 o'clock E. Gerry Brown of Brockton entered the hall.

It was expected that Mr. Brown who previously had appeared in some capacity on the platform of either the first place or make one of the seconding speakers, was to be nominated for president and he did not do so rapidly, however, that the pumps were of no avail and after the captain and crew had themselves been taken off the barge sank.

The West Virginia was owned by the Eastern Coal company of Providence, R. I. She was valued at about $10,000. When going through the broken part of Pollock Rip yesterday afternoon the West Virginia struck about 200 yards west of the bell buoy. The hawser connecting the West Virginia to the vessel will probably be a total loss.

TWO MEN RESCUED

Small Skiff Capsized in the High Sea

SCITUATE, Sept. 29.—Two middle-aged men name Roberts and Algers had grasped the overturned boat and were drifting out to sea. All haste was made by the lifesavers, who were on the watch, to get out their boat for the rescue.

They were rescued by the Fourth cliff life-saving station crew under Capt. Frederick Stanley after they had been hanging to an overturned boat for more than half an hour.

Roberts and Algers were boating in North river and went through the river's mouth in a small skiff. For the past three or four days a high sea has been running and the mouth of the river, dangerous at best, was, with the high sea, a most hazardous place to attempt to cross in a small boat.

Watchers on the beach saw the boat rear up and capsized just outside the mouth of the river and the men struggling in the waves. The two men obliged to anchor off Humarock beach.

HARVEST SUPPER HOWARD NESBIT

At the First Trinitarian Church Last Night

Brother of Thaw's Wife Arrested

The annual harvest supper of the First Trinitarian Congregational church was held last night. Yesterday it was the 15th anniversary of the installation of the pastor, Rev. George F. Kennett, so that last night's affair had really a double meaning, and during the speaking Rev. and Mrs. Kennett were presented a bouquet as a pleasant reminder of the anniversary.

There was a social hour from 6 to 7 o'clock, during which time Mr. Walter Coburn favored with an organ recital. Supper was served at 7 o'clock by the Ladies' Benevolent society.

The members of the society and their invited guests entered the supper room to the strains of a march played by Miss Mabel Sullivan. Rev. Mr. Kennett presided, and seated with him at the head of the table were Rev. M. O. Baldwin, Deacon and Mrs. O. A. Brigham, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Summer, Miss Besse Randell and Mrs. C. T. Upton.

After supper there was speaking interspersed with piano solos by Miss Mabel Sullivan, and songs by Misses Roxie Peterson and Mamie McCready. Miss Elsie Cragin accompanied.

After an introductory address by the pastor, Deacon Brigham spoke on the church; Dr. H. H. Summer, church clerk, spoke of the members; Earle F. Farnham, Sunday school superintendent, spoke briefly on Sunday school work.

Mrs. H. H. Summer, president of the Maternal association, spoke for her associations and the presidents of the Intermediate and Junior C. E. societies, Mr. Herbert Taylor and Miss Besse Randell, reviewed their work.

Mrs. C. T. Upton, superintendent of the Intermediate society, spoke on "The Church In Its Relation to Other Religious Organizations in the Community."

The closing speaker was Rev. M. O. Baldwin, on "The Social Life of the Church." Mr. Baldwin is a graduate of Bangor Seminary and Bowdoin college, and is taking a post-graduate course at Andover-Harvard. It is expected that he will be the pastor's assistant during the coming year, working in connection with the church on Saturdays and Sundays.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. George Amos Mason of Northfield, Mass., and Miss Alice Grosvenor Geigenheimer of this city were married yesterday afternoon by Rev. James J. Carlton, pastor of the Centralville Methodist church.

The ceremony took place at 2 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin D. Geigenheimer, at 1882 Bridge street. The bridegroom was the bride's sister, Miss Helen B. Geigenheimer, and the wedding march was played by Miss Ruth Geigenheimer. Mr. Raymond Mason, a brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. Mr. and Mrs. Mason will reside in Northfield.

CONLEY-HALL

Mr. Henry Conley and Miss Gertrude Hall, both of this city, were married last night at 8 o'clock by Rev. J. C. Wilson, pastor of the Chelmsford Street P. 600 CARPENTERS PLACED IN VAULT TRAY OF RINGS

Threaten to Strike in Lawrence

LAWRENCE, Sept. 30.—A strike of 600 carpenters in sympathy with the plumbers, who have been out since June 1, and the complete tie up of all building operations here was threatened by the action of the building trades council last night. The council notified the business agent of the Master Plumbers, that unless they consent to have all their non-union employees join the Plumbers' union, all the carpenters in the city would strike.

MANSLAUGHTER

McAuliffe Sent to House of Correction

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—John J. McAuliffe, aged 29, a plumber's helper, was sentenced to the house of correction for two years for manslaughter in causing the death of John H. McCash, June 28, by Judge Peasenden in the superior criminal court, yesterday.

The man had some trouble because of the suspicion entertained by McCash that McAuliffe had given information to the police and the agents of the Watch and Ward society in regard to the alleged sale of cocaine by a relative of McCash. The latter called the defendant from his room in Garland street on the night of June 28.

McAuliffe went across the street intending to tell McCash and his brother that he gave any information to the police and that they had been misinformed. Before he had a chance to say anything, however, he was attacked by McCash and others. Drawing a knife from his pocket, he struck McCash, inflicting a fatal wound.

He was indicted for murder in the second degree, but a plea of guilty to manslaughter was accepted by the government.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 30.—Howard Nesbit, brother of Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit, was arrested here while trying to dispose of what seems to be spurious diamonds among jewelers in George street, and is held on a technical charge of idleness to await a hearing in the City Court when, it is stated by the police, another charge will be brought against him.

Nesbit telegraphed to Daniel J. O'Reilly, Mrs. Thaw's New York lawyer, and told him of his predicament, but up to a late hour no message had been received from the attorney.

The young man at first denied that he was Mrs. Thaw's brother, and showed letters and cards bearing the name, E. E. Campbell, but was closely questioned later in the evening by the local detectives, when he admitted his identity.

In a waistcoat pocket nearly a dozen cheap rings were found, none of which were worth more than 50 cents, and, according to jewelers, Nesbit was trying to dispose of them as real diamonds for $5 each.

AN INJUNCTION

Against the Curb Exchange Refused

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Judge Richardson of the superior court yesterday dismissed the bill brought by A. E. Carver against the governing board of the Boston curb stock exchange, for an injunction to prevent the defendant from interfering with his trading operations on the curb.

The defense to the bill set up that the complainant agreed when joining the exchange that if he became insolvent he could be suspended by the governing board, and he had become insolvent, so was suspended. He was a member of the firm of Carver & Stimpson, which in July gave its notice that it was insolvent.

GREAT DAMAGE

Caused By Flood in Northern Maine

PORLTAND, Me., Sept. 30.—One of the worst floods in the history of Northern Maine resulting from the heavy rain-fall of the last few days, has already caused great damage in Aroostook, Penobscot, Piscataquis, Somerset, and Washington counties, and in many places last night the swollen rivers were still rising, threatening further destruction. Washouts on railroad lines have interfered greatly with traffic, and in some sections trains are at a standstill, and cities and towns are cut off from railroad communication with the rest of the state. One death has been reported due to the flood, that of Charles E. Keeler of Bangor, a Bangor and Aroostook railroad engineer who was caught under his engine when his train was derailed today by a washout near West Selby.

Most of the freshest damage thus far has been along the smaller streams, notably along the St. Croix river at Calais and the Pleasant and Piscataquis rivers in the vicinity of Dover, but it is feared that the flood waters will begin to have a dangerous effect by tomorrow on the larger rivers, especially the Penobscot, which tonight was rising rapidly. Already several hundred of feet of logs have been carried down stream by the breaking of an upper dam at Argyle.

In Washington county as well as in Aroostook and Piscataquis counties much damage has been done by the flood in the great potato growing sections in the lowlands. Other undervalued crops have also suffered heavy damage.

In Piscataquis the greatest damage was along the Piscataquis and Pleasant rivers which were all at flood stage. Along those rivers several millions of feet of logs broke away from their banks and piled up against dams and bridges forming jams which thought were a source of ever growing menace to the villages below.

At Milo on the Pleasant river, below Brownfield, a crew of 10 men have been at work all day dynamiting logs to break up a jam against a bridge across the river. Many farmers in the new land districts have sought safety tonight on the higher ground with their families, leaving their stock on the haymows of their farms.

Boxes Contain Standard of Cotton

Stolen From a Store in Boston

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—In the vaults of a safe deposit company here yesterday afternoon two men entered the jewelry store of Abraham Lewis, 111 W. Washington street, in which it is expected will play a decidedly important part in the annual transactions in cotton value in the United States, amounting to about $900,000,000.

The boxes contain fine standards of cotton, agency of the secretary of agriculture, and which were decided on by a committee of a score of cotton men as standardizing all grades of commercial cotton. Access to these standards can be had only by a committee designated by the secretary of agriculture.

Within a short time, perhaps within a day or two, the department of agriculture will have replicas of these nine standards and will place them in the hands of a similar number of associations, organizations, exchanges, and agricultural colleges for inspection.

These will enable the cotton producers, cotton merchants and spinners to become familiar with them by Sept. 1, 1910, when it is contemplated to have them govern all transactions in connection with the buying and selling of cotton.

It is said that they will take the place of about 20 varying standards now in use. The new standards are expected to do away with the endless controversies between buyers and sellers in different parts of the country, each of whom expects deliveries to be made from the basis of the standard which prevails in his particular part of the country.

EX-MAYOR QUINCY

To Set Up Discharge in Bankruptcy as a Defence

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Shortly after 1 p.m. yesterday afternoon two men entered the jeweler store of Abraham Lewis, 111 W. Washington street, and asked to be shown some rings. Mr. Lewis placed on the counter a tray containing 16 rings, valued at $60, and immediately one of the men grabbed it and ran from the store, followed by the second man and Mr. Lewis, the latter shouting at the top of his voice,

"Nowittinging that there was a large crowd in the vicinity of the store, he was about 18 years of age, 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighing about 120 pounds, smooth face, dark clothes and wore a dark hat, while the other man is about 19 years of age, 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighing about 110 pounds, fair complexion and wore a blue suit and blue cap.

This is the second time within a week that a similar offence has occurred. Last Wednesday noon two men seized a tray of rings from a Tremont street store and one was arrested last Saturday night.

NORTH CHELMSFORD.

A very largely attended meeting of the bazaar committee of the St. John's society of North Chelmsford in aid of the building fund was held last night in their hall. Everything is in readiness for the bazaar which opens on Oct. 5th and continues the 8th and 9th. The different tables drew for their positions and colors at last night's meeting. There will be five tables, namely, the Parish Society, Foresters, St. John's Ladies' Auxiliary, and the St. John's T. A. Society. On the opening night a late entertainment will be given.

On Friday night there will be a concert and dance and music will be furnished by the Colonial full orchestra. On Saturday afternoon a baby show will be held. On Saturday night the bazaar will close with a grand concert. Tonight in St. John's hall the Parish table is to conduct a whisky party in aid of the table and suitable prizes will be offered.

It is alleged that the cattle company got an advance of $25,000 from the commission firm of Berndes & Co. of New York and Havana to purchase 29,000 head of cattle. The complaint declared that instead of using the money to buy cattle, the officers of the company spent all but $6,650 for the payment of running expenses, including the payment of the salaries of the officers. For this reason Mr. Miller asked for an accounting by all the officers as well as the appointment of a receiver for the company.

LOST TWO GAMES

Detroit Took Double-Header From Boston

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Detroit, by winning both games of a double header from Boston yesterday, the first 5 to 0, and the second 8 to 3, while Philadelphia was breaking even with Chicago, now has a lead of three and one-half games over its near-contenders for the pennant and the champions have but to win their two remaining games here to make sure of the title for this season.

The visitors yesterday looked as if they were capable of doing this, as two of Boston's most effective players were driven from the box and Detroit, outside of one inning in the first game used but one pitcher, Kilian. His masterful work was the brilliant feature of the two games.

In the opening contest the locals had but two hits in their first coming in the eighth. Both on the offensive and the defensive, the champions outplayed the home team. They did not get started in the second game until it was half over, but they made the result sure.

In the initial inning of the first game, Crawford hit triple over the right field fence for a home run with two on bases, giving his team enough runs to win.

Karger took Arredondo's place in the second inning and did fair work. Three passes and a single in the fourth inning gave Detroit its other two runs. The home players never broke dangerous. One unfortunate incident was the clipping of Stahl. He was hit on the head by a swift slider in the fifth inning and although not badly hurt, had to leave the game.

After resting over one inning, Kilian started the second game for the visitors, being opposed by Crotteau. Boston scored a run in the first inning by good hitting, three singles coming in a row. With two out and a man on second in the fifth, a passed ball by Donahue that let the run in seemed to unnerve Crotteau and two bases on balls and four singles followed, giving Detroit four runs. Two more runs came in the seventh on fast base running and another hit. Three baggers in the eighth and ninth added two more to the visitor's total.

Boston scored once in the sixth on two hits and a stolen base, and again in the eighth the locals scored one run on bunched hits. They had many nice chances to rally, but brilliant fielding by Cobb and Kilian's effectiveness stopped them. The score:

FOOTBALL NOTES

Sherwin and Ingersoll are doing the kicking for Dartmouth and both are good punters.

Ewing Rafferty, well known as a football player at Princeton not many years ago, is assistant coach at University of Pittsburgh.

Football games will be allowed this fall at the Boston American League baseball grounds, but not at the South End grounds.

Mint and Sprague of the Harvard squad at present are indisposed, having jaundice, but will not be long absent from the squad.

Stow, a rangy Californian, who is a sophomore weighing more than 180, will be given a thoracic trial at guard in Harvard's line.

One of Harvard's tackling dummies has been rechristened "Maude Adams" in remembrance of last June's "Jean of Arc" performance in the stadium.

Tom Shevlin, Yale's former end and captain, is now living in Minneapolis, his old home, and is evidently assisting Coach Harry Williams with the University of Minnesota eleven.

One reads not so many picturesque names in the Carlisle Indians' line-up as formerly. This year the oddest is Hunkie Joe, who plays right halfback. Perhaps he's a cousin of Hickory Dan.

The Navy is putting all its efforts into its attack this year. Last fall the same thing happened, but it was overdone, with the result that the midship-were stale when they met the Army team.

Frank Cason, one of Cornell's old stars, has been helping Glenn Warner this fall with his many green and old dates. Cason is the regular coach of the Washington university team in St. Louis.

At the Yale and Dartmouth games in the stadium this fall seats will be built inside the lower wall as usual but the rows will be closer than previously, allowing for about 2,600 extra seats in the old locations.

It is about time for some one to invent a padded undershirt for football players. The present methods of padding, either use of strips of leather or the pads attached to the jerseys, are far from satisfactory.

Dan Proctor, one of the best ends who ever played at Brown, and who on that way upstaged the likes of the likes of Frank Hart and Harry Clinton, N.Y., that team's best end, came against Stevens yesterday. BRILLIANT BANQUET

Representatives of a Score of Countries Were Present

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The vice president of the United States and the governor of New York; the personal representatives of the emperors of Germany and Japan; the diplomatic representatives of 25 nations and the special delegates of 25 sat down to table last night in the great banquet hall of the Hotel Astor as the official guests of the Hudson-Fulton celebration commission. There were in addition the officers of eight navies and the admirals of four; representative of the United States senate in the person of Elihu Root; members of the New York state legislature and officers of the municipality of New York. It was one of the most brilliant banquets that the country has ever seen.

The gold lace of rank, the decorations of distinguished service and the robes of Archbishop Farley of the Roman Catholic church, who pronounced the invocation, made the room sparkle with color. There was considerable delay in seating the guests, and it was noticeable that in the confusion Prince Kuni, a cousin of the emperor, and his representative here, found nobody to pilot him to his seat.

Upstairs the hallways were filled with handsomely gowned women, looking down on the banqueters below and pointing with interest to the white robes of the Moorish envoys, the red robes of the Turkish envoy, Youssef Zia Pasha, and the jeweled cap of Wu Ting Fang, the retiring minister from China.

RACE LOOKS EVEN

Will Dan O'Leary Beat
the Runner?

The sports are looking over the records carefully and are doing all kinds of sums in arithmetic with the time records of Marathon runners and pedestrians in an effort to dope out the identity of the winner in the great match at Washington park Saturday afternoon, in which Dan O'Leary, the world champion long distance pedestrian, will endeavor to walk six miles while Ed Hobson, unknown runner will run 16 miles. The time records by which one-time digests are as follows: 10 miles running, minute 50 minutes 10 miles seconds. Alfred Schubert, Gladstone, N.Y., Sept. 19, 1908, 10 miles running, 50 minutes 5 1/2 seconds. H. Watkins, Belchite, Eng., Sept. 16, 1908, 10 miles running, professional, 53 minutes 15 seconds. Alfred Schubert, Boston, Dec. 28, 1908, six miles walking, amateur, 42 minutes 5 3/4 seconds. W. J. Sturges, Stamford, Conn., Eng., Oct. 19, 1897, six miles walking, professional, 45 minutes 1 second. J. W. Reby, Little Bridgeton, Eng., Aug. 26, 1883, and 43 minutes 11 seconds. J. Meagher, New York, Nov. 29, 1882. Thus it will be seen, if records count for anything, all other conditions being equal, the pedestrian has it on the run. But Dan O'Leary, the pedestrian in this case, is 65 years of age, while the runner, without any question, is a generation younger. At the Marathon run recently held on the boulevard O'Leary stepped five miles in 40 minutes 10 seconds, an average of eight minutes two seconds to the mile. Adding the average time for another mile, the veteran should make the six in 48 minutes 12 seconds, which is still under the running records. But there is no easier path at Washington park and hence it is extremely doubtful if Dan can make the six under 58 minutes.

Owing to the uncertainty of the result, the race will be one of the most interesting ever held in Lowell. O'Leary agrees to walk straight heel and toe, that is, the heel must touch the ground at every step, while the runner can sprint as fast as he wants to. Neither man is to receive any pace or other outside assistance, and the winner takes the purse of $200 and 35 per cent of the gate receipts.

The entries for the five mile run, free for all, and the three mile go-as-you-please for boys will close at the Richardson hotel this evening at 9 o'clock. All entrants will meet Mr. O'Leary at the Richardson hotel tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock to draw numbers and receive their tickets of admission.

HORSES KILLED

By a Boston & Northern Car

GLoucester, Sept. 30.—A car on the Essex division of the Boston & Northern street railway crashed into a two horse team belonging to John P. Malonson yesterday forenoon on a dangerous curve at Slough Hill, West Gloucester, injuring the animals so badly that they had to be killed. None of the passengers on the car was injured.

The team, driven by Henry Robbins, was on its way to Essex with a load of coal Wednesday. When near the top of Slough Hill, the driver stopped them to give them rest and alighted from the wagon, and it is said left the horses alone for a minute. The car, in Gloucester at 10 o'clock, came around the sharp curve at this point at a good rate of speed, and before it could be stopped, the front of the car struck and caught the pole of the wagon as the horses had turned in toward the track, over which the pole extended, and horses and wagon were dragged a distance of 40 feet before the car was brought to a standstill.

All the rules heretofore adopted by the National and the American leagues will apply to the coming world's championship series, as well as the detailed rules adopted by the commission since these games have been provided for.

The schedule providing for the series between Pittsburgh (National) and either Detroit or Philadelphia (American) follows:

Friday, Oct. 8, at Pittsburgh.

Saturday, Oct. 9, at Pittsburgh.

Monday, Oct. 11, at Detroit or Philadelphia.

Tuesday, Oct. 12, at Detroit or Philadelphia.

GLADSTONE CLUB

Big Card for Tonight's Meeting

The featherweight boxing champion will be decided in this city this evening when Johnnie Lynch of South Boston and Eddie Carr of Chelsea, rival claimants of the championship honors, will face 12 rounds before the members of the Gladstone Athletic club in the state hall. This match promises to be one of the best ever held in Lowell. Heretofore it has been practically impossible to get the first class boxers to come to this city, but the reputation of the new directors of the Gladstone club is known to the sporting men of New England and many some of the leading boxers and boxing promoters have joined R. Lynch and Carr arrived in this city this week and both are in excellent condition apparently. Both claim to be about 121 pounds. Quite a collection of boxing fans is expected to turn out to-night, however. The meeting will be for men, but in good standing and non-smokers will find it impossible to get admittance.

A. D. McPherson, manager of the Gladstone Club, has issued a circular to the members of the club calling their attention to the fact that the members of the club are to be present at the opening of the school year in regard to the way the school is to be conducted.

DRIVER LYTHE'S ACCIDENT.

Those who attended the Lowell automobile races will regret to hear of the injury by accident to H. H. Lytle and the death of his mechanician, Joe Bates. Both were known to automobile men in this city and were very popular here during the races. The accident shows that the race course at Riverhead, L. L., was defective, for Lytle has the reputation of being a safe driver. The course was new, and new courses do not stand up under high power machines in a speed contest.

The Lowell course is one of the best in the country, not only as to its easy curves but its solidity under the rear of the big machines. The life of the driver of racing auto is hazarded in every race and so with the mechanician who takes equal or greater chances for a less consideration.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DEMOCRACY.

What the democrats of Massachusetts want is a man who will unite all elements in support of the ticket. Thus far no such union has been attained, and it is imperative that the party shall rise sufficiently above the effects of past conflicts to put up a winning battle against the republican majority.

In this campaign the party must uphold the income tax idea and condemn the tariff law as a violation of party pledges by the republican party. When a tariff law that is framed solely for the corporate interests and without consideration for the individual consumer is put in effect, it seems the democrats have an unusual opportunity to expose the hollowness of republican pledges.

There is plenty of good material for a rousing democratic campaign. The question is, will the party leaders prove equal to the emergency or will they haggle at one another's threats while the republicans score a sweeping victory?

RECKLESS JOY RIDERS SENTENCED.

What is a joy ride? The phrase "joy ride" is a species of slang for an automobile ride taken for pleasure with some degree of recklessness such as fast driving. The precise meaning of the phrase is not yet definitely settled.

A species of joy riding that is becoming common is that in which some person or persons take off an auto that does not belong to them and use it often with a recklessness that not only puts the machine to the bad but endangers the lives of the occupants.

A few young men were in court in Worcester the other day charged with stealing an automobile and with driving it in a reckless manner so that the chauffeur was killed in collision with a milk wagon. The quintet had inbibed to such an extent that none of them was able to control the machine with safety. The man at the wheel was killed. One was sentenced to the house of correction for six months for reckless driving and driving while intoxicated. Another was sentenced to three months for taking an automobile not his own. Sentences like these will tend to stop this dangerous sport of taking an automobile for a drunken frolic. Under the circumstances the penalties imposed were quite lenient.

ABSURD TALK ABOUT CURTAILMENT IN COTTON MILLS.

The Arkwright club is evidently looking for trouble when it begins to talk of curtailment in cotton mills. At a time when the textile industries seem to be enjoying an unusual degree of prosperity, when no less than $20,000,000 is to be expended in the construction of new mill buildings in New England, it sounds strange, indeed, to hear the Arkwright club talk of a general curtailment in the cotton mills.

Is it not rather strange that the mills of New England should not individually according to their respective necessities rather than in combination as proposed by the Arkwright club? Can it be that all or any considerable number of them are working at a loss so that it should be necessary for them to shut down? It happens to be a matter of common knowledge that most of them are enjoying a rare degree of prosperity and in view of that fact we believe it would be well to inquire whether the dominant action of the Arkwright club does not suggest a combination in restraint of trade rather than an agency to decide when cotton mills will conjointly subserve their own interests by shutting down. It was alleged when this curtailment was first spoken of by the Arkwright club, that it was a movement to help prevent the price of cotton going to twelve cents a pound and at the same time to boost the price of cotton cloth.

But there was no mention of the fact that any prolonged shut down would demoralize buying conditions and injure the market for manufactured goods. A shut down would affect the purchasing power of the masses and thus seriously affect the market for textiles. The people would go in debt and it would take some time to recover from the setback. Indeed one of the things which to this day affects the purchasing power of the people is, that they went in debt during the long curtailments of the panic and they have not yet fully recovered.

To precipitate another period of curtailment at this juncture would be a ruinous policy for the mills as well as for the operatives. It is difficult to reconcile this curtailment proposition of the Arkwright club with the great rush to build new mills in almost every city of New England. Would any manufacturing company working at a loss or confronted with unfavorable prospects embark in the enterprise of building new mills? Certainly not.

While the object of the Arkwright club in proposing a curtailment is not clear, the motive is believed to be deceptive, and it is just possible that if the proposition be put into effect, it may be found to violate certain provisions of the anti-trust law. So far as the Lowell mills are concerned there is no prospect of a curtailment, and prominent mill officials here assert that there will be no curtailment in Lowell and probably none anywhere else under present conditions. Why then this ominous talk of the Arkwright club by which all the cotton mills are said to be controlled?

SEEN AND HEARD

An organ-grinder and a ring-tail monkey attracted more than their share of attention in Lowell's public square. A certain monkey, known to mud in Prescott street had no terrors for them and many a copper did the monkey pick from the mind to be concealed in the pocket of his indescribable jacket. Presently there wasn't a cent piece in Lowell. There was mud on the organ-grinder and his monkey reappeared a half-hour as in Market street opposite the Waverley hotel. They struck there at the psychological moment, so to speak. A party of out-of-town gentlemen who had dined at the hotel entered the street just as the music started and the monkey was right there with the berries, as Davy Kimball would say. The strangers gave liberally and enjoyed the antics of the monkey. The little fellow danced, doffed his hat when a coin came his way, masqueraded in his master's hat and performed other tricks that were comical, to say the least. While thus performing, Judge Hadley came along and he, too, couldn't resist the temptation to give the monkey a cent and the monkey, probably realizing that for future reference it might be well to have the good will of the judge, gave Judge Hadley an extra courtesy, removing his little hat twice in quick succession. Once the monkey wrapped his ringtail about a boy's ankle and the "kiddo" looked as if he thought it was all off with him, but a twit on the chain by the man at the crank unbound the tail and the boy whose eyes were filled with tears was liberated.

"Although he overcharged me terribly," says the returned traveler, "the cab driver who took me over Paris was most polite."

"All Frenchmen are," we observe.

"Yes, but this one got off his box and helped me find the necessary faintly in my French-English dictionary, so that I might say what I thought of him."

A baseball player had two fingers of his right hand pretty badly banged up in practice and on his way home from the grounds he dropped into a doctor's office to have them attended to.

"Doctor," he asked anxiously as he was leaving, "when this paw of mine heals will I be able to play the piano?"

"Certainly you will," the doctor assured him.

"Well, then, you're a wonder, Doc. I never could before."

NOWADAYS

In the golden maze of the dear old days.

There was time enough to spare, The world was new and love was true.

Men brave and maidens fair.

A rose grown e'er was the happy lot

Of the bridegroom and his bride,

And a garden gay with a primrose way And a moss green well beside.

But we're past all that, and a five-room flat.

Is the home of the modern pair,

No draytoned light on the earth at night.

But a gas stove's glittering glare,

No more he waits at the garden gate

While she comes through the gloaming pale.

She comes with the pangs in the elevator cage.

To list to the old, old tale.

He brings no flowers fresh from fragrant showers.

That he's gathered in the dell,

But violet coy by a messenger boy

He sends his love to tell.

He proposes by wire in words of fire,

Twelve little words alone,

And she whispers "Yes"—as you may guess—over the telephone.

Over the telephone.

A story that put a collector of insurance revenue "in bad" was told yesterday. It seems that a few days ago the young man reported to his superintendent that he was sick and unable to work. That was all right, and when the young man showed up at the office

again he went to the Voyons with his superintendent. Pictures of the Hind-

Fulton celebration in New York were thrown on the canvas, and in and held in the very front ranks of the crowd that first appeared stood the young man who reported "sick." The superintendent had the laugh of his life.

A family had just sat down to table

when tidings were brought of the death of an aunt. Suddenly little Emily inquired, with a longing glance at the well filled dishes: "Papa, must we cry

now, or wait till we have finished dinner?"

"I wouldn't marry you," she said, "if you were the only man in the world."

"If I were the only man in the world,"

he answered, "I wouldn't be proposing in this humble way, I should put myself up to be ratified for."

"What makes you keep on asking me if the tailor hurts?" asked the man who was being shaved. "I've said yes

three times and it hasn't made any difference."

"No," answered the barber. "I was merely trying my razors out to see which of 'em wants honing."

PEOPLE OF NOTE

The interest of the program is well distributed. The principal choral works are "Elijah," Liszt's "Missa Solemnis," and a "Te Deum" by Berlioz for three choirs, organ and orchestra. The principal orchestral novelty will be two symphonic poems by Mr. Stravinsky which he will conduct himself. Only one symphony will be performed, Tchaikovsky's fourth, but there are several other large orchestral works, including Richard Strauss' tone poem, "Don Juan." The classical school is rather slightly represented, but of Beethoven there is the "Coriolanus" overture.

Rev. Wilmet P. Lord of Portland, Me., has resigned as field secretary of the Main Civic League to accept a call to become assistant pastor of the Simpson Methodist Episcopal church of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Rev. Mr. Lord has served as field secretary since last April, taking up the work at the close of his pastoral at the People's Methodist Episcopal church in South Portland, which he served for six years. Previous to going to South Portland, Rev. Mr. Lord was pastor in Farmington. He will move at once to Brooklyn.

The Yale Alumni Weekly, which has been conducted for the past three years by Edwin Oviat, as editor, and Clarence S. Day, Jr., as publisher, will in the future be published by the Yale Publishing association, of which Mr. Oviat is president and Mr. Day treasurer. George E. Thompson will assume the business management of the association.

Sherman L. Whipple of Boston, a prominent attorney, has given $30,000 for the erection of a new dormitory for Colby academy in New London, N. H.

A still larger gift has been made by the school in the contribution of $6,000 for a new academy building. This amount is given by Mrs. Susan Colgate, both Tsok Kai Tsu was an earnest student in China, and when the government advertised that an examination would be held to determine which of the young students would be sent to America, he passed with honors. He had been studying English for five years, and his knowledge of the language assisted him materially.

He was sent to the Institute of Technology at Boston, where he studied for five years, and passed with honors. He had been studying English for five years, and his knowledge of the language assisted him materially.

Charles Dalmores is one of those tenors a product of our day who use their brains and try to acquire general culture. In a recent interview he said that, in whatever town he happens to be staying, he makes it a point always to visit the museum, "partly for the purpose of general study, and partly to get fresh designs for costumes." BRINGS EQUITY SUIT COURT OF HONOR, WHERE PARADES WERE REVIEWED IN NEW YORK

To Remove the Body of His Wife to Another Cemetery

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Feeling that his wife is near, and wishing to carry out his late wife's dying request that she and her husband be buried side by side, William Hibbs, aged 74, of 57 Birch street, Lynn, yesterday brought a bill in equity in the superior court at Salem asking for custody of his wife's body. His wife is buried in a lot in the Oak Hill cemetery at Newburyport. On or about April 2, 1908, he alleges, his son, Arthur W. Hibbs, and his step-daughter, without his consent, caused the body to be buried in the Oak Hill cemetery in a lot owned by Mrs. Quigley.

The bill further says:

"And your petitioner says he has no right or authority to take care of his wife's grave or to be buried there himself all of which he feels he may desire to do. Your petitioner is the owner of a burial lot in West Newbury, Mass., in the Rural cemetery. He desires to remove the remains of his said wife to his lot in West Newbury, where, at his decease, he may be buried at her side, which was his earnest desire just prior to her death."

Yesterday Judge Crosby granted a temporary injunction restraining Mrs. Quigley from removing the body from its present resting place pending a hearing on Hibbs' petition.

Hibbs states in the petition that his wife, Emily R. Hibbs, died in Lynn on April 1 of pneumonia, and that he procured a casket and had the body

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—It is estimated that 5,000,000 persons saw the grand opening of the court of honor, in Fifth Avenue from Forty-second street south, attended by most people who have attracted the attention of millions of visitors here and abroad to one of New York's most famous world's fairs. The New York court of honor is valuable buildings, the public library, the most picturesquely thing of its kind, the most beautiful library building ever seen. The glass columns, toppling five story buildings, were especially beautiful by day, but at night, picture.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The immigration question will be one of the problems with which the next congress will have to deal. Commissioner General of Immigration Keefe is preparing the draft of a bill to be submitted to the Senate and House in December, the object of which is to radically amend and revise the existing immigration and naturalization laws.

If enacted into law it would restrict immigration to aliens intending to become naturalized citizens, and would bar from America those foreigners who simply come here long enough to make and save money which they carry back to their homes.

Millions of dollars annually, according to Secretary Meyer, who became familiar with the situation while postmaster-general, are taken out of the United States and sent to Italy and other European countries by foreigners. According to Commissioner Keefe, the financial problem has now become so acute as to engage the earnest consideration of lawmakers in connection with the subject of immigration.

With a view to obtaining information on immigration matters, Commissioner Keefe has called a conference of immigration commissioners to be held at New York, beginning Oct. 7. Uniformity in the administration of the present laws is sought, and special attention will be given to the question of Chinese and Japanese exclusion.

Immigration commissioners from New York, Boston, Montreal, Philadelphia, Seattle, New Orleans and San Francisco will be in attendance.

It is expected that the congressional immigration commission will be ready to submit its report to congress at the coming session. It will contain a great mass of official data, and it is rumored that some startling disclosures will be made, demanding action by congress.

Next week is "quarter week" at the Lowell Five Cent Savings bank.

On appearing on the balcony King Alfonso was wildly cheered.

The Herald this morning insists that Spain must obtain a reward for her military sacrifice by energetic diplomatic action.

CZAREVNA WON

Captured the $7000 Purse For Foals of 1906

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 30.—The sale of Ulman, 2 1/2, to C. R. G. Billings caused the management to call off the free-for-all trot yesterday, leaving the Horse Review futurity the racing card of the afternoon. The 2-year-old division furnished a new champion filly, Native Belle, 2 1/2, and the senior division another 2 1/2 3-year-old, Czarevna, 2 1/2. Neither Native Belle nor Czarevna was headed.

Czarevna's win was unexpected, the talent going down heavily on Soprano, 2 1/2, which won the American Horse Breeder stakes at Rendeville. Last week the chestnut daughter of Peter the Great went a very bad race and acted wild in soaring. Yesterday she was the sweet racing machine that won all the 2-year-old stakes in 1908.

Always on a trot, she never allowed the good Bellini trotter that beat her at Rendeville to get to her side. Her first heat was the hardest. Soprano getting close enough to put her under a hard drive. The wind at that time was blowing a gale, so the 2 1/2 was really the best mile of the race.

Czarevna is owned by Dr. F. C. Moran of New York and driven by Tom Nolan. Her record previous to this victory was 2 1/2, made at Lexington last fall.

The two-year-old race was very easy for Native Belle, the star of Tom Murphy's great stable. Eva Bellini, herself a remarkable youngster, forced her out in 2 1/3, the first heat. This splendid performance in the heavy wind served only to warm her up, for in the second mile she flew down to the three-quarters in 1 3/8, then romped home in 2 1/4, the fastest mile a two-year-old filly has ever trotted.

LIQUID GAS

Why Not Buy a Few Shares? Others Have.

WHAT IS IT?

A non-poisonous, safe and cheap gas made from crude oil, liquified and filled into a steel cylinder or bottle, making it possible for the country to have city conveniences at city prices.

HOUSEHOLD USE—

It will light, heat and cook, using practically the same fixtures as ordinary city gas. The light is steady, white and soft to the eyes. The gas is extremely hot, gives off no odor while burning, and does not "smoke."

MECHANICAL—

Because LIQUID GAS contains three times the heat units of coal gas and is portable, its uses in the mechanical field are little short of marvelous. With the Wolf blow pipe a concentrated point of flame of 7400 degrees F is obtained, the hottest flame known to science. Cast iron is welded more easily than the blacksmith now welds ordinary iron. Tool steel can be added to common steel. Brass butt welded to steel or iron. Steel or iron bars can be cut in any desired direction with the Wolf cutter. At our exhibitions every day we demonstrate these mechanical and domestic features. In this city for the Laram Co., S. S. Co. and others we have welded several valuable castings, to their entire satisfaction. Not only saving the castings but much valuable time.

DEMONSTRATIONS—

After witnessing a demonstration you will be convinced that LIQUID GAS is the most wonderful and practical invention you have ever seen. Its use will be almost unlimited. If you are satisfied of this, you will admit that the company owning the exclusive state rights to LIQUID GAS, its tools and appliances, has a brilliant future; that it will make for its fast stockholders large sums of money because it is incorporated under Massachusetts laws. The stock is all common, full paid and non-assessable.

THE CAPITALIZATION IS LOW—

The first factory is here in Essex county at Danvers. The officers and directors are Essex county men. The profits should be from 200 to 600 per cent; the market waiting anxious to be served.

PROOF—

Come in and be shown; you must believe what you see, and you will know that this stock at $10 per share is like finding money, in a company that guarantees you a square deal, honestly and capably managed with every prospect of expanding to immense proportions until each $10 invested now will represent 200 to 500 or 1000 per cent. Come in and get government report and other literature, also see demonstration.

Buildings on Pickering Farm Destroyed

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 30.—The farm buildings of Mrs. Ephraim Pickering at Newington were completely destroyed by fire yesterday morning, the blaze being discovered about 3 o'clock in the burn. Besides the buildings the property destroyed consisted of 23 head of cattle, three horses, a large flock of hens, the year's crop of hay, farming implements, wagons and tools and some household goods. Part of the household goods was saved in a damaged condition.

The buildings comprised a large house with 16 rooms and a large barn, making one of the best collections of farm buildings in this section. The origin of the fire is a mystery, but is supposed to have been the work of tramps. The total loss on buildings and contents is upward of $10,000, partially covered by insurance.

At 2:15 yesterday afternoon the fire broke out afresh, as it threatened other property, including valuable wood lots, the selection of Newington asked assistance from this city and steamer J and a crew of men were sent to extinguish the blaze.

Patient Roamed Streets of Boston

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—While a quiet search was being made yesterday morning by the health and police department officials for Peter Ravazikos, who had escaped from the smallpox hospital on Southampton street while a nurse was preparing his breakfast, the patient was wandering about the streets of Roxbury and the South End.

Ravazikos, who has not been in America very long, left the hospital for a reason that only he can tell. He walked from Roxbury and was close to his lodging place on Oak street when he met Sergt. Arthur R. McConnell on division L.

He complained to the sergeant of being ill and the officer let him from Harrison avenue to the Boston dispensary at Bennett and Ash streets. A superficial examination there revealed what his trouble was, and the board of health was immediately notified. The moment that the message from the dispensary was received the health officials concluded that the patient there was the one they were seeking.

Instead of being sent back to Roxbury, the man was committed to the pest house on Gallops Island. Dr. Burgh of the board of health said yesterday afternoon that Ravazikos was not seriously ill. The health board upon having his case reported to them Tuesday evening traced his recent movements, vaccinating everybody who had been known to have been in his company. Yesterday following his disappearance and capture, more persons were vaccinated, including Sergt. McConnell. In all about 60 persons were vaccinated.

PRINCIPALS IN $10,000 PRIZE AIRSHIP RACE FROM NEW YORK TO ALBANY, 150 MILES

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Three aeronauts entered for the $10,000 prize offered to the first man to make the journey from New York to Albany in an airship. The idea was to duplicate in an airship what Robert Fulton accomplished with his first steamboat more than a hundred years ago. All of the three ships entered for the contest were dirigibles—lighter than air machines. That used by Captain Thomas S. Baldwin is a silk and rubber bag ninety-six feet long, holding 20,000 cubic feet of gas and capable of lifting 1,200 pounds. Captain Baldwin was born in Missouri fifty-six years ago and took up aeronautics when he was a boy. He is the inventor of the parachute. The airship operated by John Roeder of Germany is similar to Baldwin's, but is driven by a more powerful motor. The other entry was George L. Tomlinson of Syracuse. He won a world's champion-ship at ballooning in St. Louis in 1905 by the New York World.

Things were doing in the football line in Andover yesterday. The textile eleven of this city went there but it was not with them, a case of vent, vidi, vici. They were defeated by the academy kickers to the tune of 24 to 6. Despite the fact that the Texie boys didn't score it was a hard fought game and the fight was carried to the last ditch.

The first score came early in the first half when Textile signalled for a kick and the ball rolled behind the goal posts on a high pass. Paine, the speedy Andover end, falling on it, Porter missed the goal. Score, Andover 6.

Wise, the speedy freshman end from Fitchburg high, kicked off to Andover the ball carrying behind the goal posts. Textile was then forced behind her own goal line for a safety. Score, Andover 7. Textile 6. Later on in the half Andover executed a neat forward pass from the middle of the field, which netted them a second touchdown. Porter kicking the goal. Andover 13. Textile 6. Throughout the first half Textile held Andover for down several times and secured first down a number of times.

Andover scored twice in the second half, the scoring being the result of open field work and good use of the forward pass.

Outlook For the Football Season East and West

Men Who Will Lead the Big Elevens on Gridiron This Season

THE football season is on in full blast, and from now until Nov. 27, when the Army plays the Navy at Franklin field, Philadelphia, the strenuous gridiron game will be foremost in the minds of the followers of athletics. The candidates for the many elevens representing the different colleges throughout the country are earnestly at work practicing for the hard clashes to come later.

Coaches are having their troubles in more ways than one. It was always thus in the olden days. The stars of one season can't last forever, and it's up to the instructors to develop new luminarys. Kickers, past masters in the art of executing the forward pass, quarterbacks possessed of the ability to lead the husky host on offense and defense, fullbacks capable of battering huge passageways through mountains of beef—all these and more must be whipped into shape before the championship games roll around. A few weeks at the training ground seems all too short a space of time to accomplish all this, yet it's a task ever before the coach and his army of assistants.

Bright Prospect at Yale.

After an investigation of conditions at the different universities in the east one is impressed with the fact that Yale is probably better equipped than any of the other teams. This is due to the fact that the Elis have lost hardly any of their 1908 veterans, only four having graduated. This leaves the blue with an unusually fine nucleus and with the excellent coaching which Yale is sure to get the Elis are certain to put up a strong fight to win back the premiership of the eastern college gridiron.

From last year's eleven fifteen veterans returned to college, only four having graduated. The veterans include Goebel and Andrus, guards; Hobbs, Littley and Brown, tackles; Logan, Haines, Kibpatrick and Naedle, ends of great ability. At quarter Yale has three first class men, all of whom should profit by their experience of last year. These are Johnson, Corey and Bingham. The backs include Murphy, Daly, Philbin, Field and Coy. Last year's freshman team will give Elis several exceptionally good men in Paul, York, Parker, Sime and Branson. Vaughan and Savage are all good ends, while Merritt and Howe at quarter should push some of the regulars. The same is true of Kister, Evans, Brooks, Messinger and several of the other backs.

Penn's Hard Task.

The University of Pennsylvania football management has a harder task than usual to turn out a championship eleven. This is due to the number of veterans lost through graduation. With seven of the strongest members of the 1908 team missing, this year's success depends almost entirely on new men. The most discouraging feature is the back field. Hollenbeck, Manier, Keinath and Means will be missing. To start a team on a season with an entirely new back field is a tremendous handicap, one that the Red and Blue team has not had to face since 1906.

In the blue the Quakers have lost Gaston and Draper, the star tackles, and Scarlett, the All American end. This leaves of the 1908 first string only four men. They are Marks at center, Lumberton at one guard, Pike at the other and Bratcock at end. At first sight this looks like a hopeless situation. But as it happens that last year the Quakers had a second team which was almost as good as the first. Crooks is expected to take Scarlett's place at one end in a satisfactory manner. In the back field Captain Miller, whose brilliant playing was the feature of the Cornell game last fall after Keinath was hurt, is expected to stay in this position. The coaches also expect to make something of Ramsell, the sprinter, who showed wonderful promise in the scrub team at fullback last fall. There is also some likelihood that the coaches will try out Coezen at center and if he makes good put Marks, the last year's center, at half or fullback. This would leave only two positions to be filled, and the 12% substitutes and freshmen should furnish enough men for them.

Carlisle Appears Weak.

The outlook at Carlisle is rather dismally, as but three of last year's team have returned, and the team is practically a new one recruited from the scrub eleven. Ordinarily there are enough substitutes to fill the places to a man. Mr. Brooks Hunt in the principal role scores a brilliant personal success.

The play is a kind of comedy in that it is an adaptation of one of George Bernard Shaw's best plays. That a Shaw piece should come to grace the musical stage is indeed a development of the most novel description.

It is the music of "The Chocolate Soldier" that carries the production to a success. The libretto is most refined.

Miss Hunt's Charming Voice.

Miss Hunt practically carries the whole play on her shoulders. She has a charming voice, which she uses like the artist that she is, and every word she utters can be in a crowd. Her fame as a concert singer has led one to expect that vocally, in such a rôle, Hunt's voice as Oscar Straus has given to her, she would distinguish herself. But it was her acting which caused the great surprise. She showed variety, grace and charm, and before she had been on the stage ten minutes she had to give four encores to a room full of people.

Outlook at Harvard.

At Harvard the outlook is not bright with too much optimism. Coach Haughton will have to work like a veritable Trojan if he is to develop another eleven of championship caliber out of the material at hand. However, the Crimson gridiron coach has a grand advantage over several of his contemporaries in that he built up a solid framework last year.

The loss of several men of last year's eleven will prove a big one to Haughton. None, All American center; Burr, White, Ver. White, Cather and Hoar will not be on hand this year. It is, however, very doubtful as to whether McKay, one of the best tackles Harvard last year will again be eligible. As a nucleus upon which to build his combination Haughton will have the following men: Captain

Lillian Russell's New Play.

The beauty and charm of Lillian Russell, which seem to be perennial, have been put to some pretty difficult tests in the past and have carried plays without much vitality through more or less successful seasons, but it veterans: Captain Tobin, an all American guard; Sherwin, tackle; Bankart and Ryan, ends; Pishon, quarterback; Marks, fullback, and Ingersoll, halfback. This gives the wearers of the green a nucleus that could not be bettered. In addition, Dartmouth will receive some good men from the 1908 freshmen in Daly, end; Farnam, guard; Ecock, tackle, and Thomson, center.

How Western Teams Size Up.

The fight for the western championship should be fought keenly, for all the colleges will be represented by strong elevens and the honor appears to be already in the grasp of some team, which has frequently been the case in this section. That Chicago will have a rough course to cover to retain its championship laurels is assured by the preparations which have been and are being made for the coming season at the different colleges.

While Wisconsin will suffer through the loss of Steffen, Messmer, Rogers and Muckstone, still Osthoff, Moll, Dean, Culver, Becker, Bell and Captain Wilce will form a nucleus for a strong and fast aggregation. Among the new men are Boyle, Anderson and Arpin. Coach Harry believes he has the find of the season in Anderson, a freshman, who is fast and quick witted. The Badgers have a large squad and should give both Minnesota and Chicago a hard run.

From all reports Minnesota should have a better team than last year, not being greatly affected by the loss of veterans. Plankers and Safford were the only men to go. Captain Johnny McGovern is a good kicker, and with Pettijohn, Kaufman and Chestnut to take the ends or backs he should have little trouble in successfully working the forward pass. Coach Williams has also unearthed some phenoms among his freshmen who will add considerable strength. Johnson, who weighs about 180 pounds, is considered a second Heston, and Powers, with his 220 pounds of beef, is a fast and agile linesman, considering his weight. With this group as a nucleus Minnesota should give Chicago the hardest game of the season.

Although Chicago has lost five of last year's players—ex-Captain Steffen, Schott, Schommer, Iddings and Falk, still Coach Stagg has splendid material to work on. Of course, Steffen's loss will be greatly felt, as he was one of the best dodgers and field generals the game has ever known.

Captain Page will no doubt take the place of Steffen at quarter and should almost prove the latter's equal. Kelly, Hoffman, Badenoch, Hirshl and Eisenhorn are old linemen who turned Coach Stagg's supposed paper line into a stone wall last fall, and they should be better than ever this year. The old back field will be intact with the speedy players Rogers, Worthine and Crowley, all of whom have already covered themselves with glory. Besides these, the squad will contain Davenport, Sunderland, Comstock and Sampson, all fast and strong men.

Others who joined the squad are F. Smith, D. Smith, Rademacher, Casselher, Alenau, Sauer, Young, Gerend, De Booth, Baird, Briggs, Gilroy and Macomber.

Michigan's machine, with "Hurry Up" Yost again on deck, has responded to the orders of Captain Allardice, a kiler of high degree. Yost looks forward to the coming season in his own optimistic way and has little to say. Reports from the proper source say that the Wolverines will send one of the strongest teams in the history of the school to carry the matze and blue to victory.

Indiana should be able to frame up a combination which will worry any team in the west. Most of the old men will be back, and some good new men can be found in the freshman bunch. The loss of Johnson and the younger Paddock will be made up from the adequate supply of new material. With Captain Cunningham playing at one of the halves or at quarter and with Cartwright at fullback and Bent at the other half, Indiana should have a much stronger eleven than last year.

Northwestern expects to get into the game this year much stronger than last and make its presence felt, especially by Chicago. Dr. Gillespie will have Horace Syracuse as his assistant coach.

The Army and Navy teams are expected to be up to their usual strength. The Army coaches will be Captain J. W. Beacham and Lieutenants A. J. Harton and W. C. Philbin. The Army team will be weakened by the loss of Greble, Philbin, Mountford, Boston, Goetz, Johnson and other good players. Of the new fourth class about thirty-five youngsters have had previous experience in playing football, and several of those in have excellent reputations as football players. The season starts Oct. 2 and will finish as usual with the Navy game at Franklin field Nov. 27. There is unusual activity at Annapolis, where a number of cadets have foregone their vacations in order to take part in the early preliminary practice. The naval cadet's team will present a fairly strong appearance, as Annapolis has not suffered as severely from graduation as West Point, and the midshipmen expect to turn the tables on their rivals at West Point.

PINERO AN ADMIRER OF ETHEL BARRYMORE.

It is always stipulated in the contracts of Arthur Wing Pinero that he shall select the casts for all his own plays. Let who will stage them, he insists on picking out the players. His selection of Ethel Barrymore as the heroine of his new play that is to be produced this fall dates from an admiration for her that he formed long ago.

"Some years ago," he says, "I saw a young American girl playing a small part with Sir Henry Irving at the Lyceum theater. When the performance was over I went to the stage to meet this young girl. I told her how much I saw in her work, although the part was not of much importance. Her work was so natural that I predicted a future for her. That girl was Ethel Barrymore, and I am glad this important part in my new play is to be created in America by her."

Pleasing Music In "The Chocolate Soldier" --- Lillian Russell In a New Play

SCENE FROM "THE NOBLE SPANiARD," ROBERT EDeson'S NEW DRAMA.

Robert Edeson has opened at the Criterion theater in "The Noble Spaniard," a new drama by R. Somerset Maugham, the well known English playwright who wrote "Jack Straw," "Lucy Frederick," etc.

must be believed that they have seldom been confronted with a more serious problem than when the coincidence appeared for the first time in a new play called "The Widow's Mite," at the Liberty theater. The play is killed as a comedy, but there is little laugh stirring humor in it.

Cornell's Hard Task.

Cornell has about the hardest problem within the "big six." The Ithacans have lost seven of their 1908 veterans and will have to recruit their team largely from the ranks of substitutes and the 1908 freshman team. The veterans lost include ex-Captain Walden, quarterback; O'Meara, tackle; Cosgrove, end; Wright, center; Hutchinson, fullback; Shearer and Mowat, fullbacks, and showing, Dartmouth still has these Dartmouth appears strong.

At Dartmouth there is plenty to do to bring the team in the own optimistic way and has little to say. Reports from the proper source say that the Wolverines will send one of the strongest teams in the history of the school to carry the matze and blue to victory.

Eavesdropping and "Hidden Papers."

Much of the complication of the plot is accomplished by eavesdropping and by taking papers off desks when the owners are out of the room and the denouement is brought about in a like manner. The wife of uncle comes to the office of the man he has ruined to gossip over his vacation, and the widow, listening behind a half open door, hears him betray himself, whereupon she accuses him. He then denounces the power of attorney in his hands and dares her to do her worst. A young law friend seizes the power of attorney and holds it on to the widow, who tears it in shreds whereupon the wife is turned from the door.

As he leaves he says, "Sentimentalists" which was just enough condemnation, even when coming from a melodramatic mouth.

Miss Russell's beauty is as potent an attraction as ever, as she does all that possibly can be done with her part. Susanna Westford had some of the very few clever lines in the play and scored a great success as Mrs. Duffer.

MILITARY PARADE

25,000 Soldiers Took Part in Demonstration in N. Y. Today

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The army today added its tribute to that which the navy has lavishly paid to honor the memories of Henry Hudson and Robert Fulton. The route selected by the celebration committee for the land pageants of the week today responded to the tramp of soldiers' feet and the blare of martial music. The second of three parades that march from the upper end of the Central park to Washington square along Central park west and Fifth avenue was entirely a military display, and it brought together a variety of organizations and nationalities such as New York has seldom seen. The set feature of the day, however, had a rival. Although the celebration committee had announced that Wilbur Wright and Glenn Curtiss would probably make their official flights today, there was no way for the crowds to know until a few minutes beforehand when to look for the aeroplanes circling the sky. Weather conditions early today were encouraging. The wind was light and the sun shone brightly. For this reason thousands preferred to miss the militia parade on the chance of seeing something more novel in midair.

The dirigible balloons which yesterday failed in their attempts to reach Albany were housed today in their shed on upper Riverside drive. Their navigators said that they would not be ready to make another flight until next week. Both insist, however, that they have not abandoned the hope of winning the $10,000 prize offered by the

NOTED AVIATORS AT NEW YORK:
WRIGHT CIRCLING LIBERTY STATUE

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Nothing attracted more interest at the Hudson-Fulton celebration than the performances of Wilbur Wright and Glenn H. Curtiss with their aeroplanes. It was announced several times that the aviators would fly over the skyscrapers of the city, but both Wright and Curtiss said that, while this could be accomplished, it was more or less dangerous as well as useless from the fact that flights over the bay and river would afford a far better view to the public. Flights from Governors' Island across the strip of water to the statue of Liberty and circling the big statue was one of the stunts the aviators planned as being sensational enough to satisfy the people. Wright was first to accomplish this.

Sixes along the line of march were a repetition of those which marked the historical pageant last Tuesday. The parade was reviewed by Gov. Hughes and Mayor McFetridge and the officers of the celebration committee at the official stand in the court of honor on Fifth avenue between Fourth and Second streets.

Meanwhile, the Half Moon and Clermont were showing the residents up the river just what their originals looked like in their day. The Half Moon and the Clermont spent last night at Tarrytown, 25 miles above New York, and left early today for Ossining. Because the men of the eight-toned boats and two gunboats that compose their escort had to return to New York early the two little vessels remained in the offing all day. Tomorrow they continue their trip up the river.

Other attractions of the day here were motor boat races in the Hudson this afternoon, a reception and ball at the Brooklyn Academy of Music and a big banquet at St. George, S. L.

EL PASO, Texas, Sept. 30.—Plans for the military display at the Taft-Diaz meeting here have been completed and tomorrow troops will begin to move to the northern border.

In addition to the presidential guard, President Taft will be accompanied by a regiment of zapadores, a regiment of infantry, a regiment of artillery. The presidential train will be attended by sixty members of the presidential guard. The famous peace band of Mexico City will furnish music for the his being reduced, and relieved of the responsibility.

Caron had been delegated to assist Wright and Curtiss in their preparations for the flight and this seemed greatly to excite him. During the late afternoon yesterday when Wright was preparing to fly he frequently turned to a soldier near him and remarked:

"Why don't that fellow go up. I can't stand it any longer."

After Wright had made his last flight last evening and the crowd of visitors had left the island Caron went to his bunk and as he was turning in said to his room-mate, "Harris, old boy, good bye." Then Caron reached out to one side and grabbed his rifle and before Harris could prevent him placed it to his head and fired. He died almost instantly. He served four years in the Philippines and during his service had received several medals for bravery.

The visitors and the reception committee entered automobiles and, preceded by a troop of mounted police, proceeded to the Ranier club, where a reception in honor of the president was given by Mrs. Richard A. Ballinger, wife of the secretary of the interior.

After half an hour at the club, the president and his escort went to the Hotel Washington, which will be the home of the visitors until their departure for Tacoma. The president was permitted to return early after greeting the Yale club, which was holding a dinner and reception at the hotel.

A great throng of people waited for the president at the station and along the brilliantly lighted streets through which he passed, and there was cheering at every step of the way.

HALLEY'S COMET

May Be Observed in Transit of Sun

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 30.—Frank E. Seagrave, the Providence astronomer, whose calculations relative to Halley's comet have attracted world wide attention, announced last night that the correction of a slight error in the calculations of the comet has developed the discovery that on May 19, 1910, the comet will reach the same plane as the earth in its orbit. It is thereby determined that the tail of the comet will sweep across this planet instead of clearing it. The earth and comet will meet on the same plane, but not the same path. There will be a distance at the nearest point of 13,000,000 miles between the two. The new development gives promise of a rare opportunity of observation and a possible observation of the comet in transit of the sun.

The fan of the comet's tail will, according to Mr. Seagrave spread out and for a short period the earth will find itself swept by "star-dust" brought from many millions of miles beyond the farthest known comet. Mr. Seagrave has found his calculations borne out by those of noted astronomers.

"There need be no scare over the approaching event," said Mr. Seagrave. "Nothing will happen. The end of the world will not come. It will be nothing more than we have already passed through once June 30, 1901, when the earth swept through the tail of the comet of '01." The comet should be picked up by the naked eye in January. The telescope will be able to follow its flight surely until October 1910, and possibly later. Out of the 70 years of its passage, the comet is in the earth's orbit only about six days. The nearest it could ever come to the earth would be 6,225,000 miles."

THE CITY COUNCIL

To Take Action on Death of Ald. Turner

Special meetings of both branches of the city council will be held at 7:30 this evening to take official action on the death of Alderman Turner. The flags now at half mast on city hall and memorial building out of respect for the late ex-Mayor Charles Dana Palmer speak of the city's mourning for the late alderman as well.

The sudden taking away of Alderman Turner was discussed in about every office at city hall today, and expressions of sorrow were heard on all sides.

Chairman Gray of the board of aldermen called at city hall early this morning. In conversation with a reporter for The Sun relative to the death of Alderman Turner, the board chairman said: "I was shocked by the announcement of Alderman Turner's death. While our views were not identical in all things, I looked upon him as a conscientious man and the seriousness of his intention was felt in the board of aldermen. He was a man of business integrity and he sought to apply to the city's business the same watchfulness and good judgment that characterized him in his personal affairs. Lowell has lost a good citizen and a conscientious official."

The last official act of the alderman had to do with the city's pay rolls. There was a controversy relative to the right of the board of police to institute the position of acting superintendent of police. Alderman Turner did not believe that the office was a legal one and at first refused to recognize on the police pay roll the signature of the acting superintendent. Later, however, he signed the pay roll under protest.

The committee on accounts is elected by the city council and the aldermen. In due time will elect Mr. Turner's successor. In the meantime Comptroller Mackenzie will act as chairman pro tem of the committee. Comptroller Mackenzie was notified this morning that he was the chairman pro tem of the committee and he went to city hall this morning to sign the pay rolls. Mr. Mackenzie, too, expressed his sorrow at the death of Alderman Turner. "He was a genial companion and a good city official," said Mr. Mackenzie.

At the special meetings of the aldermen and commissioners this evening a committee on resolutions will be appointed and also a delegation to attend the funeral which will take place on Saturday.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—President Dovey of the Boston National League telephoned a telegram tonight to President Shryver of the National League protesting yesterday's game.

The protest is based on a play in the ninth inning when, with Ellis on second base, Evans singled. Thomas, in an endeavor to end Ellis at the plate, threw high and Evans scored the winning run before the ball was recovered.

Dovey asserts that Umpire Kane erred in allowing Evans to take more than one base on the overthrow.

PRES. MELLEN LOCAL POLICE

Will Soon be at Head of Boston & Maine

Current discussion in Wall street of the New Haven road's proposed issue of $10,000,000 new stock has some phases of local interest.

President Lucius Tuttle of the Boston and Maine railroad company, is expected to resign from the presidency of that company and also from the presidency of the Maine Central next month, says the Journal of Commerce, and according to banking interests closely identified with the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, President C. S. Mellen of that road will be elected to the presidency of both roads. Ultimately several directors of the Boston and Maine and Maine Central will resign and it is expected that their places will be filled by interests associated with Mr. Mellen's policies.

It is understood that it is the intention of President Mellen to expend several millions of dollars on the Boston and Maine within the next few years. Large sums will be expended for new equipment, reduction of grades, alignment of roads, etc.

In June, 1908, the New Haven acquired about 35 per cent. of the stock of the Boston and Maine. Subsequent investigations and legislation by the Massachusetts legislature made it necessary for the New Haven to sell its stock to John L. Ballard, of Meriden, Conn., who has since acquired sufficient stock to give him ownership of 51 per cent. of the total Boston and Maine shares. It is understood that Mr. Ballard represents New Haven railroad interests.

In addition to its control over 6,600 miles of New England railway lines, the New Haven also owns a network of trolley systems operating throughout Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, as well as the two steamship services from Boston to New York, the Fall River line and the Boston Merchants line. The gross earning capacity of all these properties is upwards of $155,000,000.

J. H. VAHEY

Was Nominated For Governor By the Democrats

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—With prospects bright for harmony and a practically unanimous choice for a state ticket, the Massachusetts democratic state convention was opened today in historic Faneuil hall. Up to the time for convening there was only one contest in sight. This was between James H. Vahey of Watertown, last year's gubernatorial candidate, and Mayor J. T. Coughlin of Fall River, for the nomination for governor. The supporters of Vahey, however, were confident that the Fall River mayor would withdraw his name before the balloting began, although Mayor Coughlin at an early hour today declared that his name would be presented to the convention. But he also said that the contest was a good natured one and that if Vahey is nominated he would move to make it unanimous.

In addition to the appearance of unity and harmony among the party leaders the announcement that the names of at least two so-called "liberal republicans" would be presented to the convention for prominent places on the democratic ticket was also a feature. On the slate drawn up at the "night before" meeting of party leaders last night Eugene Foss of Cohasset was named for the nomination for lieutenant governor, while Harvey N. Shepard of Boston was selected for attorney general. The names of probable candidates for the offices of state treasurer and secretary of state had not been announced previous to the opening of the convention, but it was expected that the nomination for one of these places would go to another "liberal republican," Alex Boyer of Southboro was stated for auditor.

Regarding the organization of the convention it was announced that T. P. Riley of Malden had been chosen temporary chairman and Charles Hamlin permanent chairman. A. S. Hayes of Hopkinton was named by Vahey to place his name in nomination, and Mayor Coughlin stated that his name would be placed before the convention by Charles P. Ryan of Fall River. Chairman Fred J. MacLeod of the state committee was scheduled to make the nominating speech for Eugene Foss.

At a meeting of the party leaders this morning a decision was reached on the two vacancies remaining on the state ticket. The conferees decided upon James Bryan of Westfield as the party candidate for state treasurer while Prof. Arthur T. Clark of Williamsburg a member of the Williams college faculty was named for secretary of state. The committee on resolutions was in session during the forenoon. It was understood that there were no contested planks in the platform although the rough draft which had been written was expected to be revised before being submitted to the convention. Contrary to the expectation of many of the leaders, especially those who were desirous for harmony and amity, Mayor Foss was supported solidly by the democratic forces.

The doors of Faneuil hall were opened about 10:30, a quarter of an hour before the time set for the ratification of the order of the convention. Few of the delegates entered the hall until a band in the balcony struck up a lively air when they began to file in slowly. None of the prominent party leaders was among the early arrivals.

Among the early arrivals was State John C. Ashby of Lakeville, a small town between Taunton and New Bedford. Mr. Ashby when 21 years old cast his first vote in 1858 for James Buchanan, president and he boasted today that he had never voted but the democratic ticket since. Shortly after 10 o'clock E. Gerry Brown of Brockton entered the hall. It was expected that Mr. Brown who previously appeared in some capacity on the state ticket might enter a place other than the candidates in nomination or make one of the secondary speakers.

It was 11:30 a. m. half an hour later than the appointed time when Fred J. MacLeod of Cambridge, chairman of the state committee, rapped for order. The hall at this time was about half full. The usual preliminary business was transacted, preliminarily the reading of the call by the chairman and the adoption of the rules of procedure.

The resolution on which we are just entering affords a striking in what is probably an off point yet is one of great importance to the people of Massachusetts. We have had now for some years regulation control in state and national banks. We had a national bank which slightly reduced duties upon carpet wool. It reduced the duties upon printing paper substantially in accordance with the report of the committee of congress. It reduced the duties upon pig iron; it also reduced the duties on lumber and provided for reciprocal free coal with Canada, the bill passed by the last congress was not a revision for the benefit of the consumer and that as a whole it imposes unjust burden of taxation upon the people.

Mr. Hamlin's conclusion was that all who desire relief from these burdens must cast their vote for the candidate to be nominated by our party and if he is faithfully supported he will carry our standard to victory.

First I wish to thank this convention for the honor conferred upon me in substantially reducing existing burdens of taxation. We can, therefore, start out on the premise that the party was pledged to reduce the tariff and the only question is to compare the present law with the actual result.

The tariff as originally reported by the chairman of the committee on revenue contained some good things, it made it more difficult and some other articles of duty slightly reduced duties upon carpet wool. It reduced the duties upon printing paper substantially in accordance with the report of the committee of congress. It reduced the duties on lumber and provided for reciprocal free coal with Canada, the bill passed by the last congress was not a revision for the benefit of the consumer and that as a whole it imposes unjust burden of taxation upon the people.

The bill as originally reported by the chairman of the committee on revenue contained some good things, it made it more difficult and some other articles of duty slightly reduced duties upon carpet wool. It reduced the duties upon printing paper substantially in accordance with the report of the committee of congress. It reduced the duties on lumber and provided for reciprocal free coal with Canada, the bill passed by the last congress was not a revision for the benefit of the consumer and that as a whole it imposes unjust burden of taxation upon the people.

The bill passed the house with some changes, some of the lower rates being restored and other rates slightly increased.

Cotton Goods Increased

When the bill reached the senate iron ore was taken from the free and taxed, lead products were increased; lower rates on some of the agricultural schedules were restored to the Dingell rates, cotton goods were enormously increased and the changes in the wooden duties made by the Dingell rates being substantially restored. Increased duties were imposed upon sugar cane, wheat, certain food products, silk, print paper and many other articles.

The most important change of all, however, is the provision for the maximum and minimum rate of duty. The minimum rate is the law as it passed and the maximum schedule of duties and the extra twenty-five per cent. duty will be applied to the imports of all articles unless the president by proclamation gives them the benefit of the minimum rate after finding that they are not unduly encumbering against the production of the United States. The bill at the same time directs the passage of an enabling reciprocity treaty and its contemplation throws everlastingly the work of the McKinley administration.

The future policy of the United States, therefore, is to be one of retaliation rather than of reciprocity.

Tariff Question Important

It may be pointed out that the coming state election is not a national election and therefore that the subject of the tariff is not a proper one to discuss here. The question, to my mind, is of such overwhelming importance that it is the one pre-eminent issue which should be passed upon by the voters at the coming election.

His Excellency Governor Draper, was one of the first republicans in the state to come to the rescue of the tariff bill.

In a speech recently delivered before the Young Men's Republican Club of Dorchester he stated that he was sure that the great tariff bill will prove to have been a wise one and that the people of Massachusetts will appreciate the great work done in behalf of congress by congress, and further, that the republican party has nothing to fear from the attacks of our friends the enemy. The people of Massachusetts will take up the gage of battle thrown down by the governor and by the national administration and we will enter upon the fight with perfect confidence that the indignation now felt by a large majority of our people will express itself at the polls on the coming election.

Personally, I wish the whole contest could be fought upon this one issue. The two parties are gathered now in line of battle, the one opposing the other. The commander of the republican party has publicly announced that his line is weak in certain spots, and in that kind of campaign line-in-chief to strike at those weak spots and in that kind of campaign line-of-command to assure of success. If we can concentrate our forces on this one vital issue we shall be assured of widespread support. The fight upon which we are entering is not alone a democratic fight, for in the cause of our revision we represent the cause of all the consumers of this state. All those who desire relief from present unjust burdens of taxation must cast their vote for the candidate sure to be nominated by our party and if he is faithfully supported he will carry our standard to victory.

The resolutions prepared by the committee on resolutions were adopted unanimously.

Tariff Revision

The next question which naturally arises and which to my mind forms the one issue upon which this campaign should be waged is that of tariff revision. When I view the result of republican promises as enacted in the present tariff law I cannot help thinking of the old days and the struggle of the consumers and business men of Massachusetts to secure relief from taxation upon the necessities of life and the raw materials of manufacture. There comes to my mind the valiant fight made by the committee of one hundred and the petition signed by forty thousand republicans to its resolution committee on behalf of free raw material for Massachusetts industries and for reciprocity treaties. I remember also the Babcock bill radically lowering duties on iron and steel products which was favorably reported by a committee of the Massachusetts legislature; also a declaration in favor of reciprocity with Canada which also was reported by one of the committee and which passed one branch at least of the state legislature. I also think of the petition signed by two hundred and twenty-one out of two hundred and eighty members of the legislature transmitted by Gov. Guild to the president asking for relief from excessive taxation and proclaiming that the fair test of tariff revision should be a duty needed, not is it demanded.

I have just said that the power should be restored but speaking for myself alone, I do not believe that this power should be added to in any degree.

Tariff Revision

The next question which naturally arises and which to my mind forms the one issue upon which this campaign should be waged is that of tariff revision. When I view the result of republican promises as enacted in the present tariff law I cannot help thinking of the old days and the struggle of the consumers and business men of Massachusetts to secure relief from taxation upon the necessities of life and the raw materials of manufacture. There comes to my mind the valiant fight made by the committee of one hundred and the petition signed by forty thousand republicans to its resolution committee on behalf of free raw material for Massachusetts industries and for reciprocity treaties. I remember also the Babcock bill radically lowering duties on iron and steel products which was favorably reported by a committee of the Massachusetts legislature; also a declaration in favor of reciprocity with Canada which also was reported by one of the committee and which passed one branch at least of the state legislature. I also think of the petition signed by two hundred and twenty-one out of two hundred and eighty members of the legislature transmitted by Gov. Guild to the president asking for relief from excessive taxation and proclaiming that the fair test of tariff revision should be a duty needed, not is it demanded.

Year after year our republican friends, especially in this state, have promised tariff revision but year after year the happy event was postponed. At last this promised revision has come and the republican party has made a record which it now submits to a people for their approval or disapproval.

Demand Higher Duties

Early in the proceedings before congress, when it became evident that the protected manufacturers would insist upon holding what they had already secured in the Dingell tariff and even were demanding still higher duties, several prominent republicans declared that the republican party had ever promised to reduce the tariff.

They claimed that revision did not mean reduction. However interesting these views may have been they have all been swept away by the frank declaration of President Taft that the republican party was bound to the necessities of life consistent with the protection of health, the maintenance and promotion of education and the attainment of American ideals in agriculture.

The republican organization has itself or open agreement to the most progressive elements of its own party.

The democratic party is utterly opposed to special privileges. It demands equal opportunities for all, the manufacturer, the merchant, the farmer, and the consumer, freedom from unjust discrimination and the oppression of monopolies for the workingmen, wages, conditions and hours of labor and prices for the necessities of life consistent with the protection of health, the maintenance and promotion of education and the attainment of American ideals in agriculture.

The republican organization has itself or open agreement to the most progressive elements of its own party.

The democratic party thus believes in freedom of circumstances and equal means of expression of popular opinion and of the enlightened government of the people. Where there is a community of action and of government there should be regard to it as their patriotic duty to subordinate party interests to the public good.

Nominating Speeches

In a brief speech Alfred Hayes of Hopkinton placed in nomination for governor James H. Vayeh of Watertown. Immediately afterward Charles P. Ryan of Fall River nominated Mayor J. T. Coughlin of that city for the same office.

Thayer Not a Candidate

The hitherto smoothly running mechanism of the convention received its first jolt when the name of J. B. Thayer of Worcester was placed in nomination by Michael F. Flaherty of Worcester.

The movement, if such it was, was but short-lived, for James F. McHugh of Worcester rose and stated that he was speaking for Mr. Thayer and that Mr. Thayer was not a can-

Peary's Ship Entered New York Harbor Today

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—With the flag of Peary at her masthead the little steamer Roosevelt which bore Commander Peary in his quest for the North pole entered New York harbor today. It was barely daylight when the lookouts descried the vessel off Sandy Hook coming slowly. Few of the vessels in the lower bay recognized the Arctic steamer as she rounded the Hook. Opposite the point of the Hook the Roosevelt gave three triumphant screams of her siren and ran up the Peary Arctic flag at her highest mast-head, then the flag of the New York Yacht club at her fore and the American ensign at her mizzen. Turning the point of the Hook, the Roosevelt headed into the harshest seas and anchored there within a half mile of the pav-

There were many changes in the corps of professors and instructors when the university opened today. Dr. Charles W. Eliot was absent from the president's chair and in his place was President A. Lawrence Lowell who will be formally installed into office on October 6. Five professors of long standing have resigned since the close of the last academic year while five younger professors have also left the institution. In their places were a number of new professors and many new instructors.

Serious work, however, will not be undertaken by most of the students until after the inauguration of President Lowell. Classes ordinarily begin on the Monday following the opening day, now will this year but only preliminary routine work will be done. The classes in all departments will be omitted on October 6 and 7 so as to permit the students attending the inauguration ceremonies.

THE AEROPLANES

Made No Attempt to Fly Today

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Believing they had demonstrated yesterday their ability to fly in spite of windy weather Wilbur Wright and Glenn Curtiss did not take any chances by attempting a flight in the strong wind that was blowing this morning. Wright spent most of the forenoon in tinkering around the aeroplane. Curtiss visited Captain Thomas Baldwin whose dirigible airship caused him difficulties in the attempted New York-Albany flight yesterday.

rumors of more sensational flights by the two conservative bird men only met with ridicule from Mr. Wright and Mr. Curtiss. The most daring flights which have ever been considered by Mr. Curtiss would be a flight over and under the East river bridges.

Soon after noon the signal corps officers at Governors Island hoisted signals indicating that the weather conditions were unfavorable and that no airplane flights were probable. Wilbur Wright, however, said in the wind subsided he would attempt to make an official flight later today. At noon the velocity of the wind was 17 miles an hour. While Mr. Wright flew in a stronger wind yesterday he did not care to attempt the official flight under any but favorable conditions.

TWO MEN RESCUED

Small Skiff Capsized in the High Sea

SCITUATE, Sept. 30.—Two middle-aged men, named Roberts and Algers, had a narrow escape from drowning off Fourth cliff beach yesterday. They were rescued by the Fourth cliff life-saving station crew under Capt. Frederick Stanley after they had been hanging to an overturned boat for more than half an hour.

Roberts and Algers were boating in North river and went through the river's mouth in a small skiff. For the past three or four days a high sea has been running and the mouth of the river, dangerous at best, was, with the high sea, a most hazardous place to attempt to cross in a small boat.

Watchers on the beach saw the boat rear up and capsized just outside the mouth of the river and the men struggling in the waves. The two men

600 CARPENTERS PLACED IN VAULT TRAY OF RINGS

Threaten to Strike in Lawrence

LAWRENCE, Sept. 30.—A strike of 600 carpenters, in sympathy with the plumbers, who have been out since June 1, and the complete tie up of all building operations here, was threatened by the action of the building trades council last night. The council notified the business agent of the Master Plumbers, that unless they consent to have all their non-union members join the Plumbers' union, all union carpenters in the city would strike.

MANSLAUGHTER

McAuliffe Sent to House of Correction

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—John J. McAuliffe, aged 29, a plumber's helper, was sentenced to the house of correction for two years for manslaughter in causing the death of John H. McCash, June 28, by Judge Fessenden in the superior criminal court, yesterday.

The man had some trouble because of the suspicion entertained by McCash that McAuliffe had given information to the police and the agents of the Watch and Ward society in regard to the alleged sale of cocaine by a relative of McCash. The latter called the defendant from his room in the Second street on the night of June 28.

McAuliffe went across the street intending to tell McCash and his brother that he gave any information to the police and that they had been misinformed. Before he had a chance to say anything, however, he was attacked by McCash and others. Drawing a knife from his pocket, he struck McCash, inflicting a fatal wound.

He was indicted for murder in the second degree, but a plea of guilty to manslaughter was accepted by the government.

The young man at first denied that he was Mrs. Thaw's brother, and showed letters and cards bearing the name, R. E. Campbell, but was closely questioned late in the evening by the local detectives, when he admitted his identity.

In a waistcoat pocket nearly a dozen cheap rings were found, none of which were worth more than 50 cents, and, according to jewelers, Nesbit was trying to dispose of them as real diamonds for $35 each.

Brother of Thaw's Wife Arrested

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 30.—Howard Nesbit, brother of Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, was arrested here while trying to dispose of what seems to be spurious diamonds among jewelers in George street, and is held on a technical charge of inciting to avoid a hearing in the City Court when, it is stated by the police, another charge will be brought against him.

Nesbit, telephoned to Daniel J.

O'Reilly, Mrs. Thaw's New York lawyer, and told him of his predicament, but up to a late hour no message had been received from the attorney.

AN INJUNCTION

Against the Curb Exchange Refused

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Judge Richardson of the superior court yesterday dismissed the bill brought by A. E. Caron against the governing board of the Boston curb stock exchange for an injunction to prevent the defendant from interfering with his trading operations on the curb.

The defendant in the bill set up that the complainant agreed, when joining the exchange, that if he became insolvent he could be suspended by the governing board, and he had become insolvent, so was suspended. He was a member of the firm of Caron & Simons, which in July gave its notice that it was insolvent.

GREAT DAMAGE

Caused By Flood in Northern Maine

PORLTAND, Me., Sept. 30.—One of the worst floods in the history of Northern Maine, resulting from the heavy rain-fall of the last few days, has already caused great damage in Aroostook, Penobscot, Piscataquis, Somerset, and Washington counties, and in many places last night the swollen rivers were still rising, threatening further destruction. Washouts on railroad lines have interfered greatly with traffic, and in some sections trains are at a standstill, and cities and towns are cut off from railroad communication with the rest of the state. One death has been reported due to the flood, that of Charles F. Keefe of Bangor, a Bangor and Aroostook railroad engineer who was caught under his engine when his train was derailed today by a washout near West Sebasco.

Most of the freshet damage thus far has been along the smaller streams, notably along the St. Croix river at Calais, and the Pleasant and Piscataquis rivers in the vicinity of Dover, but it is feared that the flood waters will begin to have a dangerous effect by tomorrow on the largest rivers, especially the Penobscot, which tonight was rising rapidly. Already several millions of feet of logs have been carried down stream by the breaking of an upper boom at Argyle.

In Washington county, as well as in Aroostook and Piscataquis counties much damage has been done by the flood in the great potato growing sections in the lowlands, rather unbroken crevices have also suffered heavy damage.

In Piscataquis the greatest damage was along the Piscataquis and Pleasant rivers which were all at flood pitch. Along these rivers several millions of feet of logs broke away from their banks and filling up against dams and bridge-formed jams, which tonight were a source of ever growing menace to the villages below.

At Mile 6 on the Pleasant river, below Brownfield, a crew of 15 men have been at work all day dynamiting logs to break up a jam of other logs across the river. Many farmers in the low land districts have sought safety tonight on the higher ground with their families, leaving their stock on the haymows of their barns.

EX-MAYOR QUINCY

To Set Up Discharge in Bankruptcy as a Defence

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Shortly after 3 yesterday afternoon two men entered the jewelry store of Abraham Lewis at 113½ Washington street and asked to be shown some rings. Mr. Lewis placed on the counter a tray containing 50 rings, valued at $50, and immediately one of the men grabbed it and ran from the store, followed by the second man and Mr. Lewis, the latter shouting at the top of his voice, "Notwithstanding that there was a large crowd in the vicinity of the store, the men got away. One is described as being about 30 years of age, 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighing about 120 pounds, smooth face, dark clothes and wore a derby hat, while the other man is about 40 years of age, 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighing about 140 pounds, bald complexion and wore a blue suit and blue cap."

This is the second time within a week that a similar offence has occurred. Last Wednesday, when two men seized a tray of rings from a Tremont street store and one was arrested last Saturday night.

NORTH CHELMSFORD.

A very largely attended meeting of the bazaar committee of the St. John's society of North Chelmsford in aid of the building fund was held last night in their hall. Everything is in readiness for the bazaar which opens on Oct. 5th and continues the 6th and 7th. The different tables drew for their positions and colors at last night's meeting. There will be five tables, namely, the Parish, Sodality, Foresters, St. John's Ladies' Auxiliary, and the St. John's T. A. Society. On the opening night a fine entertainment will be given. On Friday night there will be a concert and dance and music will be furnished by the Colonial full orchestra. On Saturday afternoon a baby show will be held. On Saturday night the bazaar will close with a grand concert. Tonight in St. John's hall the Parish table is to conduct a whisky party in aid of the table and suitable prizes will be offered.

The suit was begun in 1902 and originally was against Peter T. Brady, now president of the board of aldermen, city magistrates, who was president; Charles H. Sherrill, the secretary; John W. Welsh, the treasurer, and other officers and directors.

It is alleged that the cattle company got an advance of $25,000 from the commission firm of Bernays & Co. of New York and Havana to purchase 20,000 head of cattle. The complaint declared that instead of using the money to buy cattle, the officers of the company spent all but $8,650 for the payment of running expenses, including the payment of the salaries of the officers. For this reason Mr. Miller asked for an accounting by all the officers as well as the appointment of a receiver for the company.

DRIVER LYTHE'S ACCIDENT.

Those who attended the Lowell automobile races will regret to hear of the injury by accident to H. H. Lytle and the death of his mechanician, Joe Bates. Both were known to automobile men in this city and were very popular here during the races. The accident shows that the race course at Riverhead, L. I., was defective, for Lytle has the reputation of being a safe driver. The course was new, and new courses do not stand up under high power machines in a speed contest.

The Lowell course is one of the best in the country, not only as to its easy curves but its solidity under the tear of the big machines. The life of the driver of racing autos is hazarded in every race and so with the mechanician who takes equal or greater chances for a less consideration.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DEMOCRACY.

What the democrats of Massachusetts want is a man who will unite all elements in support of the ticket. Thus far no such union has been attained, and it is imperative that the party shall rise sufficiently above the effects of past conflicts to put up a winning battle against the republican majority.

In this campaign the party must uphold the income tax idea and condemn the tariff law as a violation of party pledges by the republican party. When a tariff law that is framed solely for the corporate interests and without consideration for the individual consumer is put in effect, it seems the democrats have an unusual opportunity to expose the hollowness of republican pledges.

There is plenty of good material for a rousing democratic campaign. The question is, will the party leaders prove equal to the emergency or will they haggle at one another's throats while the republicans score a sweeping victory?

RECKLESS JOY RIDERS SENTENCED.

What is a joy ride? The phrase "joy ride" is a species of slang for an automobile ride taken for pleasure with some degree of recklessness such as fast driving. The precise meaning of the phrase is not yet definitely settled.

A species of joy riding that is becoming common is that in which some person or persons take off an auto that does not belong to them and use it often with a recklessness that not only puts the machine to the bad but endangers the lives of the occupants.

A few young men were in court in Worcester the other day charged with stealing an automobile and with driving it in a reckless manner so that the chauffeur was killed in collision with a milk wagon. The quintet had inbibed to such an extent that none of them was able to control the machine with safety. The man at the wheel was killed. One was sentenced to the house of correction for six months for reckless driving and driving while intoxicated. Another was sentenced to three months for taking an automobile not his own. Sentences like these will tend to stop this dangerous sport of taking an automobile for a drunken frolic. Under the circumstances the penalties imposed were quite lenient.

ABSURD TALK ABOUT CURTAILMENT IN COTTON MILLS.

The Arkwright club is evidently looking for trouble when it begins to talk of curtailment in cotton mills. At a time when the textile industries seem to be enjoying an unusual degree of prosperity, when no less than $20,000,000 is to be expended in the construction of new mill buildings in New England, it sounds strange, indeed, to hear the Arkwright club talk of a general curtailment in the cotton mills.

Is it not rather strange that the mills of New England should not act individually according to their respective necessities rather than in combination as proposed by the Arkwright club? Can it be that all or any considerable number of them are working at a loss so that it should be necessary for them to shut down? It happens to be a matter of common knowledge that most of them are enjoying a rare degree of prosperity and in view of that fact we believe it would be well to inquire whether the dominant action of the Arkwright club does not suggest a combination in restraint of trade rather than an agency to decide when cotton mills will conjointly subserve their own interests by shutting down. It was alleged when this curtailment was first spoken of by the Arkwright club, that it was a movement to help prevent the price of cotton going to twelve cents a pound and at the same time to boost the price of cotton cloth.

But there was no mention of the fact that any prolonged shut down would demoralize buying conditions and injure the market for manufactured goods. A shut down would affect the purchasing power of the masses and thus seriously affect the market for textiles. The people would go in debt and it would take some time to recover from the setback. Indeed one of the things which to this day affects the purchasing power of the people is, that they went in debt during the long curtailments of the panic and they have not yet fully recovered.

To precipitate another period of curtailment at this juncture would be a ruinous policy for the mills as well as for the operatives. It is difficult to reconcile this curtailment proposition of the Arkwright club with the great rash to build new mills in almost every city of New England. Would any manufacturing company working at a loss or confronted with unfavorable prospects embark in the enterprise of building new mills? Certainly not.

While the object of the Arkwright club in proposing a curtailment is not clear, the motive is believed to be deceptive, and it is just possible that if the proposition be put into effect, it may be found to violate certain provisions of the anti-trust laws. So far as the Lowell mills are concerned there is no prospect of a curtailment, and prominent mill officials here assert that there will be no curtailment in Lowell and probably none anywhere else under present conditions. Why then this ominous talk of the Arkwright club by which all the cotton mills are said to be controlled?

SEEN AND HEARD

An organ-grinder and a ring-tail monkey attracted more than their share of attention in Lowell's public square yesterday afternoon. From Presumpscot street had come a troupe of monkeys and many a copper did the monkey pick from the hand to be concealed in the pocket of his indescribable jacket. Probably there wasn't a person in town who had not seen an organ-grinder and the monkey roamed so rich a harvest as in Market street opposite the Waverly hotel. They struck there at the psychological moment, so to speak. A party of out-of-town gentlemen who had dined at the hotel entered the street just as the music started and the monkey was right there with the berries, as Dave Kimball would say. The strangers gave liberally and enjoyed the antics of the monkeys. The little fellow danced, doffed his hat when a coin came his way, masqueraded in his master's hat and performed other tricks that were comical, to say the least. While thus performing, Judge Hadley came along and he, too, couldn't resist the temptation to give the monkey a coin and the monkey, naturally realizing that for future reference, it might be well to have the good will of the judge, gave Judge Hadley an extra courtesy, removing his little hat twice in quick succession. Once the monkey wrapped his ring-tail about a boy's ankle and the "kiddie" looked as if he thought it was all on with him, but a twitch on the chain by the man at the cradle unbound the tail and the boy whose eyes were filled with tears was liberated.

"Although he overcharged me terribly," says the returned traveler, "the cab driver who took me over Paris was most polite."

"All Frenchmen are," we observe. "Yes, but this one got off his box and helped me find the necessary profanity in my French-English dictionary, so that I might say what I thought of him."

A baseball player had two fingers of his right hand pretty badly bunged up in practice, and on his way home from the grounds he dropped into a doctor's office to have them attended to.

"Doctor," he asked anxiously as he was leaving, "when this paw of mine heals will I be able to play the piano?"

"Certainly you will," the doctor assured him.

"Well, then, you're a wonder, Doc. I never could before."

NOWDAYS

In the golden maze of the dear old days

There was time enough to spare.

The world was new and love was true,

Men brave and maidens fair.

A rose grown out was the happy lot

Of the bridegroom and his bride,

And a garden gay with a promise

way.

And a mess green well beside.

But we've past all that, and a few room that

Is the home of the modern pair,

No driftwood's light on the hearth at night.

But a gas stove's glittering glare,

No more he walks at the garden gates

While she comes through the gloomy pale.

She comes with the page, in the elevator cage

To list to the old, old tale.

He brings no flowers fresh from fra-

grant showers.

That he's gathered in the dell,

But violets cry by a messenger boy

He sends his love to tell.

He proposes by wile in words of fire,

Twelve little words alone,

And she whispers "Yes"—as you may

guess—

Over the telephone.

A story that put a collector of insurance revenue "in bad" was told yesterday. It seems that a few days ago the young man reported to his superintendent that he was sick and unable to work. That was all right, and when the young man showed up at the office again he went to The Voyons with his superintendent. Pictures of the Hudson-Fulton celebration in New York were thrown on the canvas, and to behold in the very front ranks of the crowd that first appeared stood the young man who reported "sick." The superintendent had the laugh of his life.

"I wouldn't marry you," she said, "if you were the only man in the world." "If I were the only man in the world," he answered, "I wouldn't be proposing in this humble way. I should pull myself up to be noticed for."

"No," answered the barber. "I was merely trying my razors out to see which of 'em wants hollering."

PEOPLE OF NOTE

The interest of the program is with distributed. The principal choral works are "Elijah," Liszt's "Missa Solemnis" and "Te Deum" by Berlioz for three choirs, organ and orchestra. The principal orchestral novelty will be two symphonic poems by Mr. Stravinsky which he will conduct himself. Only one symphony will be performed, Tchaikovsky's fourth, but there are several other large orchestral works, including Richard Strauss' tone poem, "Don Juan." The classical school is rather slightly represented, but of Beethoven there is the "Coriolanus" overture.

Rev. William P. Lord of Portland, Me., has resigned as field secretary of the Main Civic League to accept a call to become assistant pastor of the Simpson Methodist Episcopal church of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Rev. Mr. Lord has served as field secretary since last April, taking up the work at the close of his pastoral at the People's Methodist Episcopal church in South Portland, which he served for six years. Previous to going to South Portland, Rev. Mr. Lord was pastor in Farmington. He will move at once to Brooklyn.

The Yale Alumni Weekly, which has been conducted by Edwin Oviatt, as editor, and Clarence S. Day Jr., as publisher, will in the future be published by the Yale Publishing Association, of which Mr. Oviatt is president and Mr. Day treasurer. George E. Thompson will assume the business management of the association.

Sherman L. Whipple of Boston, a prominent attorney, has given $35,000 for the erection of a new dormitory for Colby academy in New London, N. H. A still larger gift has been made by the school in the contribution of $50,000 for a new academy building. This amount is given by Mrs. Susan Colgate. Both Mr. Whipple and Mrs. Colgate are natives of New London.

Tsoo Kai Tse of Canton, China, now in this country, is one of a number of young men who were sent to America a few years ago by the Chinese government to be given a technical education, with a view to introducing modern methods in the Chinese empire. Tsoo Kai Tse was an earnest student in China, and when the government advertised that an examination would be held to determine which of the young students would be sent to America at the expense of the government, Tsoo Kai Tse prepared for the test and passed with honors. He had been studying English for five years, and his knowledge of the language assisted him materially. He was sent to the Institute of Technology at Boston, where he studied for five years. He afterward took a post-graduate course and received the degree of master of science. Since last June he has been traveling under a commission from the Chinese government, investigating modern gold mining and milling methods. He will go to Cripple Creek and will later visit the gold mining camps in Arizona and Nevada.

Charles Palmer is one of those tenors (a product of our day) who use their brains and try to acquire general culture. In a recent interview he said that, in whatever town he happens to be staying, he makes it a point always to visit the museum, "partly for the purpose of general study, and partly to refresh designs for costumes." He has changed his Lohengrin costume three times, in accordance with fashion as to how the Knight of the Swan ought to look.

The 3rd Worcester music festival will be held in Mechanics hall, Worcester, during the evening weeks. There will be concerts Wednesday evening and both afternoon and evening on Thursday and Friday. The festival management has carried out its policy of keeping down the number of soloists, the experience of the association having shown that the needless multiplication of soloists disastrously adds to the expense without adding proportionately either to the popularity or the artistic merit of the festival. Neither has an attempt been made to provide a star of a sensational sort, though several of the singers are well known. There are two sopranos, Miss Corinne Rider-Kelso, who is the foremost of American oratorio sopranos, and Miss Laura Conchs. The mezzo-soprano, Miss Jeanne Gerville-Reschke, is a well known opera singer from the Manhattan Opera House in New York. There are two contraltos, Miss Margaret Keyes and Miss Christine Miller, and two tenors, Real Miller and George Harris Jr. There will be much interest in the appearance of Mr. Harrison, son of the president of Amherst college, and a singer of promise. The baritone is Oscar Seagle and the bass, Frederick S. Webber. The instrumental soloist will be the talented and beautiful Russian pianist, Tatyana Lerner. The chorus numbers 60 and the orchestra, as usual, is composed of 60 men from the Boston Symphony orchestra, with W. Kraft as concert master. As last year Arthur Meier will conduct, and the place of Mr. Knobell as assistant conductor will be taken by Gustav Struensee of the Boston orchestra.

Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger are much interested in preparing for "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm." A scenic artist has been staying at "Gifford's," Mrs. Wiggin's summer home in Fitchburg, the make-up studio for the production. Every effort is being made to secure exact color and perspective of it, for Mrs. Wiggin's ambition shall be true to the soul. "You can't think what I have been doing this afternoon," said Mrs. Kate Donisthorpe Wiggin to an interviewer who wished news of her forthcoming play, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm." "I have been buying a stage coach for Rebecca's entrance in the first act. It is the easiest, most beautiful old example of the thoughtless Concord stage that ever was seen." A neighbor of mine, Mr. Harrington of West Boylston, has been helping me to cover York county, and we have been greatly aided by an old stage driver friend who remembered a coach exhibited in the county fairs of twenty years ago. After finding it in an old barn near Front's Neck, and after learning that it could be bought, I dimly ap-

To Remove the Body of His Wife to Another Cemetery

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Feeling that his wife was placed in the receiving tomb in the Oak Hill cemetery at Newburyport, On his late wife's dying request that she be buried in West Newbury, he alleges, his son, Arthur W. Hibbs, and his step-daughter, without his consent, caused the body to be buried in the Oak Hill cemetery in a lot owned by Mrs. Quigley.

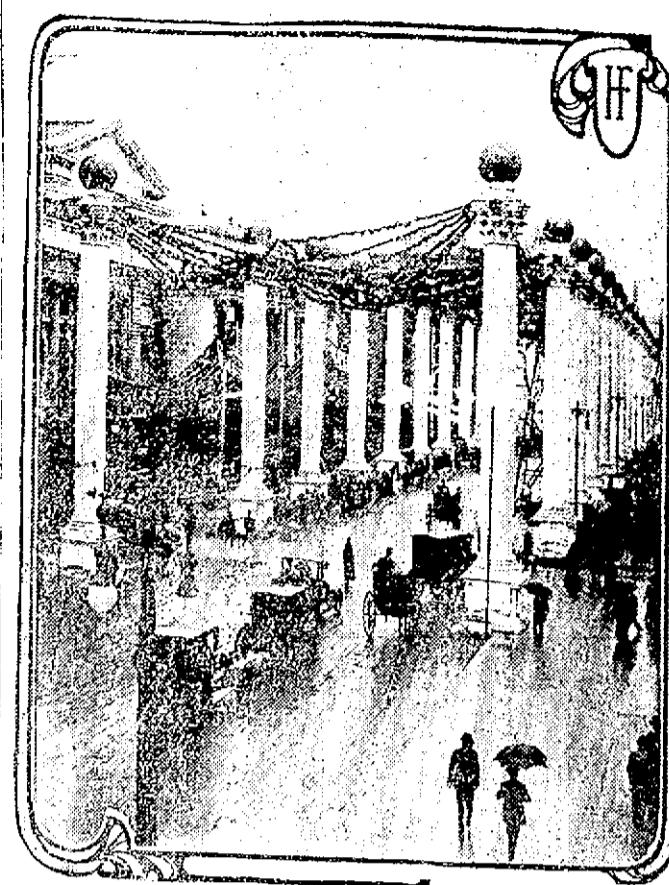

The bill further says:

"And your petitioner says he has no right or authority to take care of his wife's grave or to be buried there himself all of which he feels he may desire to do. Your petitioner is the owner of a burial lot in West Newbury, Mass., in the Rural cemetery. He desires to remove the remains of his said wife to his lot in West Newbury, where, at his decease, he may be buried at her side, which was his earnest desire just prior to her death."

Yesterday Judge Crosby granted a temporary injunction restraining Mrs. Quigley from removing the body from its present resting place pending a hearing on Hibbs' petition.

Hibbs states in the petition that his wife, Emily R. Hibbs, died in Lynn on April 1 of pneumonia, and that he procured a casket and had the body

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The immigration question will be one of the problems with which the next congress will have to deal. Commissioner-General of Immigration Keefe is preparing the draft of a bill to be submitted to the senate and house in December, the object of which is to radically amend and revise the existing immigration and naturalization laws.

If enacted into law it would restrict immigration to aliens intending to become naturalized citizens, and would bar from America those foreigners who simply come here long enough to make and save money which they carry back to their homes.

Millions of dollars annually, according to Secretary Meyer, who became familiar with the situation while postmaster-general, are taken out of the United States and sent to Italy and other European countries by foreigners. According to Commissioner Keefe, the financial problem has now become so acute as to engage the earnest consideration of lawmakers in connection with the subject of immigration.

With a view to obtaining information on immigration matters, Commissioner Keefe has called a conference of immigration commissioners to be held in New York, beginning Oct. 7. Uniformity in the administration of the present laws is sought, and special attention will be given to the question of Chinese and Japanese exclusion.

Immigration commissioners from New York, Boston, Montreal, Philadelphia, Seattle, New Orleans and San Francisco will be in attendance.

It is expected that the congressional immigration commission will be ready to submit its report to congress at the coming session. It will contain a great mass of official data, and it is rumored that some startling disclosures will be made, demanding action by congress.

Next week is "quarter week" at the Lowell Five Cent Savings bank.

MADRID, Sept. 30.—The popular rejoicing which began in the capital last night over the victory of the Spanish forces in Morocco culminated at midnight, when immense crowds assembled before the royal palace shouting, "Long live the king!"

On appearing on the balcony King Alfonso was wildly cheered.

The heralds this morning insist that Spain must obtain a reward for their military service by energetic diplomatic action.

The opposition press insinuates that the proclamation of victory is premature, as the Beni Bou Frer, Beni Sand and Beni-Gaf, the fierce mountain tribes, have not yet been whipped.

CZAREVNA WON

Captured the $7000 Purse For Foals of 1906

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 30.—The sale of Uhan, 2½, to C. K. G. Billings caused the management to call off the free-for-all trot yesterday, leaving the Horse Review futurity the racing card of the afternoon. The 2-year-old division furnished a new champion filly, Native Belle, 2½, and the senior division another 2½ 3-year-old, Czarevna, 2½. Neither Native Belle nor Czarevna was beaten.

Czarevna's win was unexpected, the talent going down heavily on Soprano, 2½, which won the American Horse-Breeder stakes at Readville last week, the chestnut daughter of Peter the Great went a very bad race and acted wild in scoring. Yesterday she was the sweet racing machine that won all the 2-year-old stakes in 1906.

Always on a trot, she never allowed the good Bellini trotter that beat her at Readville to get to her side. Her first heat was the hardest. Soprano getting close enough to it for under a hard drive. The wind at that time was blowing a gale, so the 2½ was really the best mile of the race.

Czarevna is owned by Dr. E. C. Moran, of New York, and driven by Tom Nolan. Her record previous to this victory was 2½, made at Lexington last fall.

The two-year-olds' race was very easy for Native Belle, the star of Tom Murphy's great stable. Eva Bellini herself a remarkable youngster, forced her out in 2½, the first heat. This splendid performance in the heavy wind served only to warm her up, for in the second mile she flew down to the three-quarters in 1:38, then romped home in 2½, the fastest mile a two-year-old filly has ever trotted.

Native Belle, a 2½ trotter, cost Edward Thompson of Northport, L. I., $2375 at auction in New York last year when unbroken. Murphy worked her eight in 15 seconds when the circuit horses were at Detroit, and since then she has been the talk of the big line. She trots just as Uhan does, every stride telling of real enjoyment.

John Diezelson, trainer for Hill and Dale farm, has reason to feel proud of the two young trotters he prepared this afternoon. Both are daughters of Bellini, 2½, and each is almost in the championship class for its age.

Uhan was shipped to Cleveland last night, where he will pass into the hands of Doc Tanner, who trains Mr. Billings' two horses. He is lost to the trot, as his public appearances from now on will be only in the matinee game. Saturday will see him starting at Cleveland with his new owner driving. If present plans do not mislead.

Charles Sanders, of Salem, Mass., came here yesterday for the purpose of seeing him start in the free-for-all against Sonoma Girl, but before this event could be started Frank G. Jones of Memphis paid Mr. Sanders $15,000 for the son of Bingen. The Memphis man has been trying to have his friend buy the horse for a month past, and yesterday, seeing the drift-like condition of the track, he bought Uhan to keep him out of the race, and then wired Mr. Billings that he owned a new trotter.

Speaking of the hard track, brings to mind that The Harvester will not start today. Ed Geers says the 4-year-old son of Walnut Hall has never been hurt, and he does not consider it wise to take a chance by going three miles right up to the colt's top speed. The summary:

LIQUID GAS

Why Not Buy a Few Shares? Others Have.

WHAT IS IT?

A non-poisonous, safe and cheap gas made from crude oil, liquified and filled into a steel cylinder or bottle, making it possible for the country to have city conveniences at city prices.

HOUSEHOLD USE—

It will light, heat and cook, using practically the same fixtures as ordinary city gas. The light is steady, white and soft to the eyes. The gas is extremely hot, gives off no odor while burning, and does not "soot."

MECHANICAL—

Because LIQUID GAS contains three times the heat units of coal gas and is portable, its uses in the mechanical field are little short of marvelous. With the Wolf blow pipe a concentrated point of flame of 7,000 degrees F. is obtained, the hottest flame known to science. Cast iron is welded more easily than the blacksmith now welds ordinary iron. Tool steel can be added to common steel. Brass butt welded to steel or iron. Steel or iron bars can be cut in any desired direction with the Wolf cutter. At our exhibitions every day we demonstrate these mechanical and domestic features. In this city for the Lamson Co., S. S. Co. and others we have welded several valuable castings, to their entire satisfaction. Not only saving the castings but much valuable time.

DEMONSTRATIONS—

After witnessing a demonstration you will be convinced that LIQUID GAS is the most wonderful and practical invention you have ever seen. Its use will be almost unlimited. If you are satisfied of this, you will admit that the company owning the exclusive state rights to LIQUID GAS, its tools and appliances, has a brilliant future; that it will make for its first stockholders large sums of money because it is incorporated under Massachusetts laws. The stock is all common, full paid and non-assessable.

THE CAPITALIZATION IS LOW—

The first factory is here in Essex county at Danvers. The officers and directors are Essex county men. The profits should be from 200 to 600 per cent; the market waiting anxious to be served.

PROOF—

Come in and be shown; you must believe what you see, and you will know that this stock at $10 per share is like finding money in a company that guarantees you a square deal, honestly and capably managed with every prospect of expanding to immense proportions until each $10 invested now will represent 200 to 500 or 1000 per cent. Come in and get government report and other literature, also see demonstration.

Outlook For the Football Season East and West

By TOMMY CLARK.

The football season is on in full blast, and from now until Nov. 27, when the Army plays the Navy at Franklin field, Philadelphia, the strenuous gridiron game will be foremost in the minds of the followers of athletics. The candidates for the many elevens representing the different colleges throughout the country are earnestly at work practicing for the hard clashes to come later.

Coaches are having their troubles in more ways than one. It was always thus in the olden days. The stars of one season can't last forever, and it's up to the instructors to develop new luminaries. Kickers, past masters in the art of executing the forward pass, quarterbacks possessed of the ability to lead the husky last on offense and defense, fullbacks capable of battering huge passageways through mountains of beef—all these and more must be whipped into shape before the championship games roll around. A few weeks at the training grind seems all too short a space of time to accomplish all this, yet it's a task, verily before the coach and his army of assistants.

Bright Prospect at Yale.

After an investigation of conditions at the different universities in the east one is impressed with the fact that Yale is probably better equipped than any of the other teams. This is due to the fact that the Elis have lost hardly any of their 1908 veterans, only four having graduated. This leaves the blue with an unusually fine nucleus and with the excellent coaching which Yale is sure to get the Elis are certain to put up a strong fight to win back the premiership of the eastern college gridiron.

From last year's eleven fifteen veterans returned to college, only four having graduated. The veterans include Goebel and Andrus, guards; Hobbs, Lilley and Brown, tackles; Logan, Hayes, Kippatrick and Naudie, ends of great ability. At quarter Yale has three first class men, all of whom should profit by their experience of last year. These are Johnson, Corey and Bingham. The backs include Murphy, Daly, Philbin, Field and Coy. Last year's freshman team will give Elis several exceptionally good line men in Paul, York, Parker, Savage and Bronson. Vaughn and Savage are all good ends, while Merritt and Howe at quarter should push some of the regulars. The same is true of Kistler, Evans, Brooks, Messinger and several of the other backs.

Penn's Hard Task.

The University of Pennsylvania football management has a harder task than usual to turn out a championship eleven. This is due to the number of veterans lost through graduation. With seven of the strongest members of the 1908 team missing, this year's success depends almost entirely on new men. The most discouraging feature is the back field. Hollenbeck, Manier, Keimath and Means will be missing. To start a team on a season with an entirely new back field is a tremendous handicap, one that the Red and Blue team has not had to face since 1900.

In the line the Quakers have lost Gaston and Draper, the star tackles, and Scarlett, the All American end. This leaves of the 1908 first string only four men. They are Marks at center, Lumberton at one guard, Pike at the other and Bradcock at end. At first sight this looks like a hopeless situation. But it so happens that last year the Quakers had a second team which was almost as good as the first. Crooks is expected to take Scarlett's place at one end in a satisfactory manner. In the back field Captain Miller, whose brilliant playing was the feature of the Cornell game last fall, after Keimath was hurt, is expected to star in this position. The coaches also expect to make something of Ramstad, the sprinter, who showed wonderful promise in the scrub team at fullback last fall. There is also some likelihood that the coaches will try out Cozzens at center and if he makes good put Marks, the last year's center, at half or fullback. This would leave only two positions to be filled, and the 1908 substitutes and freshmen should furnish enough men for them.

Crooks Appears Weak.

The outlook at Carlisle is rather dismally, as but three of last year's team have returned, and the team is practically a new one recruited from the scrub eleven. Ordinarily there are not enough substitutes to fill the places left vacant by the regulars, but this year nearly all the subs have left school, and Coach Warner will have his hands full developing a team that will compare at all favorably with past elevens.

Captain Libby, who was used last year as utility man in back field and who at various times played quarter, half and full back, will probably be the regular quarter in place of Dapeni, who graduated last spring. Theory will probably be assigned to the position of fullback. However, the only other old man available, will probably be given a position in the line, as he has gained considerable weight, and it is thought his old injury will not aggravate so much by the duties of a lineman as they would if he played behind the line.

Outlook at Harvard.

At Harvard the outlook is not the best, as there are not many optimism. Coach Haughton will have to work like a veritable Trojan if he is to develop another eleven of championship caliber out of the material at hand. However, the Crimson, brilliant coach, has a grand advantage over several of his contemporaries in that he built up a solid framework last year.

The loss of several men of last year's eleven will prove a big one to Haughton. Nease, All American center; Burr, White, Ver Wieler, Cutler and Host will not be on hand this year. It is, however, very doubtful as to whether McKay one of the best tackles developed last year, will again be eligible. As a nucleus upon which to test in the past and have carried mold his combination Haughton will have the following men: Captain

Pleasing Music In "The Chocolate Soldier" --- Lillian Russell In a New Play

(From Our New York Dramatic Correspondent)

THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER," at the Lyric theater, is a pleasing comic opera that promises to enjoy a long run. Miss Brooks Hunt in the principal role scores a brilliant personal success.

The play is a kind of curiosity in that it is an adaptation of one of George Bernard Shaw's best plays. That a Shaw piece should come to grace the musical stage is indeed a development of the most novel description.

It is the music of "The Chocolate Soldier" that carries the production to success. The libretto is uninteresting.

Miss Hunt's Charming Voice.

Miss Hunt practically carries the whole play on her shoulders. She has a charming voice, which she uses like the artist that she is, and every word she utters can be understood. Her name as a concert singer had led one to expect that vocally, in such a brilliant score as Oscar Straus has given this opera, she would distinguish herself. But it was for nothing when Miss Hunt was surprised. She showed vivacity, grace and charm, and before she had been on the stage ten minutes she had to give up or expose to one of her songs.

Miss Hunt, a charming little girl, is as excellent as the title character, and Miss Arden is a good actress and need not be forgotten especially well. William Purdie and the cast, though not strong in the voices, did most to recommend that there are chances to rejoice the heart of any music lover. Oscar Straus has excelled the score of his "Widow's Mite." His tunes are not only good, with a subtle musical and dramatic sense, but his march and dance score is unusual, which is unusual in itself. Fortunately, outside of the one part of the score that opera was extremely well sung.

Lillian Russell's New Play.

The beauty and charm of Lillian Russell, which seem to be permanent, have been put to some pretty difficult tests in the past and have carried mold his combination Haughton will have the following men: Captain veterans: Captain Tobin, an all American guard; Sherwin, tackle; Bankart and Ryan, ends; Pishon, quarterback; Marks, fullback; and Ingersoll, halfback. This gives the wearers of the green a nucleus that could not be bettered. In addition, Dartmouth will receive some good men from the 1908 freshmen in Daly, end; Farman, guard; Brock, tackle, and Thomson, center.

How Western Teams Size Up.

The fight for the western championship should be fought keenly, for all the colleges will be represented by strong elevens and the honors do appear to be already in the grasp of some team, which has frequently been the case in this section. That Chicago will have a rough course to cover to retain its championship laurels is assured by the preparations which have been and are being made for the coming season at the different colleges.

While Wisconsin will suffer through the loss of Steinle, Messmer, Rogers and Muckilestone, still Osthoff, Moll, Dean, Culver, Benker, Bell and Captain Wilce will form a nucleus for a strong and fast aggregation. Among the new men are Boyle, Anderson and Arpin. Coach Barry believes he has the find of the season in Anderson, a freshman, who is fast and quick witted. The Badgers have a large squad and should give both Minnesota and Chicago a hard run.

From all reports Minnesota should have a better team than last year, not being greatly affected by the loss of veterans. Plaikner and Safford were the only men to go. Captain Johnny McGovern is a good kicker, and with Pettjohn, Kaufman and Chestnut to take the ends or backs he should have little trouble in successfully working the forward pass. Coach Williams has also unearthed some phenoms among his freshmen who will add considerable strength. Johnson, who weighs about 175 pounds, is considered a second Heston, and Powers, with his 230 pounds of beef, is a fast and agile linesman, considering his weight. With this group as a nucleus Minnesota should give Chicago the hardest game of the season.

Although Chicago has lost five of last year's players—ex-Captain Steffen, Schett, Schommer, Iddings and Falk, still Coach Stagg has splendid material to work on. Of course, Steffen's loss will be greatly felt, as he was one of the best dodgers and field generals the game has ever known.

Captain Page will no doubt take the place of Steffen at quarter and should almost prove the latter's equal. Kelly, Hoffman, Badenoch, Hirsch and Ehrlhorn are old linemen who turned Coach Stagg's supposed paper line into stone wall last fall, and they should be better than ever this year. The old back field will be intact with the speedy players Rogers, Worthwine and Crowley, all of whom have already covered themselves with glory. Besides these, the squad will contain Davenport, Sunderland, Comstock and Sampson, all fast and strong men.

Others who joined the squad are F. Smith, D. Smith, Rademacher, Casselher, Menaul, Sauer, Young, Gerend, De Booth, Baird, Briggs, Gilroy and Macomber.

Michigan's machine, with "Hurry Up" Yost again on deck, has responded to the orders of Captain Allardice, kicker of high degree. Yost looks forward to the coming season in his own optimistic way and has little to say. Reports from the proper source say that the Wolverines will send one of the strongest teams in the history of the school to carry the maize and blue to victory.

Indiana should be able to frame up a combination which will worry any team in the west. Most of the old men will be back, and some good new men can be found in the freshman bunch. The loss of Johnson and the younger Paddock will be made up from the adequate supply of new material. With Captain Cunningham playing at one of the halves, or at quarter and with Cartwright at fullback and Berndt at the other half, Indiana should have a much stronger eleven than last year.

Northwestern expects to get into the game this year much stronger than last and make its presence felt especially by Chicago. Dr. Gillespie will have Hear of Syracuse as his assistant coach.

The Army and Navy teams are expected to be up to their usual strength. The Army coaches will be Captain J. W. Beacham and Lieutenants A. J. Hartwell and W. C. Philoon. The Army team will be weakened by the loss of Greble, Philoon, Mountford, Besson, Goetz, Johnson and other good players. Of the new fourth class about thirty-five youngsters have had previous experience in playing football, and several of these men have excellent reputations as football players. The season starts Oct. 2 and will finish, as usual, with the Navy game at Franklin field Nov. 30. There is unusual activity at Annapolis, where a number of cadets have foregone their vacations in order to take part in the early preliminary practice. The naval cadets' team will present a fairly strong appearance, as Annapolis has not suffered as severely from graduation as West Point, and the midshipmen expect to turn the tables on their rivals at West Point.

PINERO AN ADMIRER OF ETHEL BARRYMORE.

It is always stipulated in the contracts of Arthur Wing Pinero that he shall select the casts for all his own plays. Let who will stanch them, he insists on picking out the players. His selection of Ethel Barrymore as the heroine of his new play that is to be produced this fall dates from an admiration for her that he formed long ago.

"Seventeen years ago," he says, "I saw a young American girl playing a small part with Sir Henry Irving at the Lyceum theater. When the performance was over I went to the stage to meet this young girl. I told her how much I saw in her work, although the part was not of much importance. Her work was so natural that I predicted a future for her. That girl was Ethel Barrymore, and I am glad that this important part in my new play is to be created in America by her."

MILITARY PARADE

25,000 Soldiers Took Part in Demonstration in N. Y. Today

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The Army New York World, and promise that today, added its tribute to that which there will be another race. Although today's parade was classed as a military affair, the war fleet anchored in the North river were its chief attraction. Every one of the ships contributed its quota of sailors and marines, and the tars of England, France, Germany, Italy, Holland, Mexico, Argentina, Hayti, and Cuba marched with the jades of Uncle Sam's navy. To avoid the question of precedence the general landing parties from the foreign warships head the procession escorted by officers and sailors from the Connecticut, the United States flagship. The marines and sailors of the United States march just behind them.

The parade included 25,000 men, and its start was scheduled for early this morning. After the marines and sailors came several detachments of the Chin-ed States army, led by the West Point cadets. The United States national guardmen composed the next division and the bulk of the parade. Grand Army posts and various independent organizations, most famous of which was the Albany garrison corps, made up the rest of the line.

Scenes along the line of march were a repetition of those which marked the historical pageant last Tuesday. The parade was reviewed by Gov. Hughes and Mayor McFadden and the officers of the celebration committee at the official stand in the court of honor on Fifth avenue between Fourth and Second streets.

Meanwhile, the Half Moon and Clermont were showing the utensils up the river just what their originals looked like in their day. The Half Moon and the Clermont spent last night at Tarrytown, 25 miles above New York, and left early today for Ossining. Because the men of the eight torpedo boats and two gunboats that compose their escort will return to New York today, the two little vessels remained in the offing all day. Tomorrow they continue their trip up the river.

Other attractions of the day here were motor boat races in the Hudson this afternoon, a reception and ball at the Brooklyn Academy of Music and a big banquet at St. George, S. L.

DETROIT STRONG

The Pitchers Are in Fine Shape

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—After the way in which the Detroit claimants outplayed Boston in the two games yesterday they look like sure winners in today's third game of the series.

Detroit's pitching department is very strong while Boston is not. This game will not decide the championship unless Philadelphia loses to Chicago and the westerners win their game. If such is the case the pennant will go to Detroit. But the best Philadelphia can do if the Michigan open win today is to end the season in a tie by winning all five of its remaining games and have Detroit less three more. Should Detroit win today and again tomorrow the title will remain in the western city.

NOTED AVIATORS AT NEW YORK; WRIGHT CIRCLING LIBERTY STATUE

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Nothing attracted more interest at the Hudson-Fulton celebration than the performances of Wilbur Wright and Glenn H. Curtiss with their aeroplanes. It was Island across the strip of water to the statue of Liberty and circling the big statue was one of the stunts the aviators would fly over the skyscrapers of the city, but both Wright and Curtiss said that, while this could be accomplished, it was more or less dangerous as well as useless from the fact that flights over the bay and river would afford a far better view to the spectators.

Soldier Shot Himself Through the Head

his being reduced and relieved of the responsibility.

Caron had been delegated to assist Wright and Curtiss in their preparations for the flight, and this seemed greatly to excite him. During the late afternoon yesterday when Wright was preparing to fly he frequently turned to a soldier near him and remarked:

"Why don't that fellow go up. I can't stand it any longer."

After Wright had made his last flight last evening and the crowd of visitors had left the island Caron went to his bunk and as he was turning in said to his room-mate, "Harris, old boy, good bye." Then Caron reached out to one side and grabbed his rifle and before Harris could prevent him placed it to his head and fired. He died almost instantly. He served four years in the Philippines and during his service had received several medals for bravery.

Caron shot himself through the head his companions, that it would result in

MRS. BALLINGER TWO MEN KILLED

Gave Reception in Honor of Pres. Taft

In Auto Accident at Mineola, L. I.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 30.—President Taft reached the Pacific coast last night, just two weeks after his start from Boston. He will leave Seattle for Tacoma on Friday and will leave that city at midnight, going south until Los Angeles is reached. Then comes the turn to the east.

The president and his party were met at the Union station on their arrival at 8.15 o'clock by a reception committee of two dozen members.

The visitors and the reception committee entered automobiles and proceeded to the Hotel club, where a reception in honor of the president was given by Mrs. Richard A. Ballinger, wife of the secretary of the interior.

After half an hour at the club, the president and his escort went to the home of the visitors until their departure for Tacoma. The president was permitted to return early after greeting the Yale club, which was holding a dinner and reception at the hotel.

A great throng of people waited for the president at the station and along the brilliantly lighted streets through which he passed, and there was cheering at every step of the way.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Parker Norton, the owner of the Mineola Press, and Edward Baker, proprietor of the Mineola garage, were instantly killed last night in an automobile accident near Mineola, L. I.

The two men were returning to the village with the balloon of Leo Steiner, the aeronaut, which has just descended from a long flight across New York city and Long Island.

THE CITY COUNCIL

To Take Action on Death of Ald. Turner

Special meetings of both branches of the city council will be held at 7.30 this evening to take official action on the death of Alderman Turner. The flags now at half mast on city hall and memorial building out of respect for the late ex-Mayor Charles Dana Palmer speak of the city's mourning for the late alderman as well.

The sudden taking away of Alderman Turner was discussed in about every office at city hall today, and expressions of sorrow were heard on all sides.

Graham Gray of the board of aldermen called at city hall early this morning. In conversation with a reporter for The Sun relative to the death of Alderman Turner, the board alderman said: "I was shocked by the announcement of Alderman Turner's death. While our views were not identical in all things, I looked upon him as a conscientious man and the seriousness of his intention was felt in the board of aldermen. He was a man of business integrity and he sought to apply to the city's business the same watchfulness and good judgment that characterized him in his personal affairs. Lowell has lost a good citizen and a courageous official."

The first official act of the aldermen had to do with the city's pay rolls. There was a controversy relative to the right of the board of police to institute the position of acting superintendent of police. Alderman Turner did not believe that the office was a legal one and at first refused to recognize on the police pay roll the signature of the acting superintendent. Later, however, he signed the pay roll under protest.

The committee on accounts is elected by the city council and the aldermen in due time will elect Mr. Turner's successor. In the meantime Colman MacKenzie will act as chairman pro tem of the committee. MacKenzie was notified this morning that he was the chairman pro tem of the committee and he went to city hall to sign the pay rolls. Mr. MacKenzie, too, expressed his sorrow at the death of Alderman Turner. "He was a good companion and a good city official," said Mr. MacKenzie.

At the special meetings of the aldermen and committee this evening a committee on legislation will be appointed and invited to attend the funeral which will take place on Saturday.
